State Economy Wave Hits City, County

ONE PROPOSAL TRIMS SHARE OF SALES TAX

Other Bill Provides That Sub-Divisions Match State's Relief Allocations.

WOULD WORK HARDSHIPS

Tax Plan Likely to Slash City, County Revenue by Third, Officials Contend.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Leveling the charge that the federal government is "viciously attempting to duck its responsibilities by laying off WPA workers," Gov. John W. Bricker today heard pleas of municipal officers that no matching provision be included in the $5,000,000 work relief bill.

The state administration's economy campaign struck two blows at Mansfield and Richland county government financing today.

A bill was to be introduced in the senate, the Associated Press reported, cutting down the share of sales tax revenue allocated to cities and counties, and a temporary poor relief bill, permitting $5,000,000 in loans to municipalities but including in its provisions the requirement that subdivisions must match state allocations, dollar for dollar.

Both measures, if passed, will work hardships on both the city of Mansfield and other county subdivisions, officials said today.

Would Limit Returns.

The sales tax proposal may cut down by a third or more allocations to city and county. It proposes that the amount of sales tax revenue returned to local subdivisions be limited to $10,000,000. Local governments now receive 40 per cent of the revenue. Their share amounted to $16,000,000 in 1937 and $12,000,000 in 1938.

The drop in sales tax receipts worked hardships on both the city and county last year.

Study Proposal to Jail Drivers Who Pass Cars on Hill

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The motorist who takes a chance and passes another car going up a hill would become liable to arrest if the Ohio legislature enacted into law a bill before it today.

The measure, one of six affecting motorists introduced in the house yesterday, prohibits passing within 400 feet of the crest of an upgrade.

Another bill would require an automobile driver who figured in an accident in which damage was caused to report it to the state highway department.

Provisions of the other measures included.

Fixing a minimum penalty of six months in jail for a motorist who figured in an accident and failed to stop;

Increasing from one year to three years the duration of driver's licenses.

Authorizing the state highway patrol to require motorists to have their brakes put in proper working condition, and

Making more stringent the drivers' responsibility law in which automobile owners may be required to carry liability and property damage insurance.

Hunt Former Inmate Who Escaped Pen

Notorious Bank Robber Fled From O. S. R. 10 Years Ago.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood today ordered an investigation of the escape of Howard Cecil Bowman, 28, bank robber and brother of the notorious Neal Bowman, from Ohio penitentiary.

An intensive search was under way in southeastern Ohio today for a notorious bank robber, former Mansfield reformatory inmate, who escaped yesterday from Ohio penitentiary.

He is Howard Cecil Bowman, 28, bank robber and brother of Neal Bowman, who paid in the electric chair for a brief reign of terror in Ohio and Kentucky.

Warden J. C. Woodard reported today that Howard Bowman apparently had escaped by hiding in a garbage can consigned to the London prison farm. Woodard said a can was found at the prison farm to have air holes punched through its sides. A farmer living near Rome, west of Columbus, telephoned the sheriff that he saw a man riding on the rear of the garbage truck as it passed through that town.

Bowman entered Mansfield reformatory when he was 19, coming here in March, 1929 from Perry county on a charge of burglary and larceny. He had been sentenced to a one-to-15-year term from breaking into a New Lexington home.

Serving Life Term.

On Nov. 9, 1929 Bowman and two companions escaped from E dormitory at the reformatory, by climbing over a fense. He was never recaptured, until his arrest for bank robbery and sentenced to life imprisonment on March 3, 1934.

Bowman and his brother Neal operated in the southern Ohio hills. Howard entered the penitentiary in 1931, convicted of the robbery of banks at Higginsport and Russellville in Brown county.

His brother, Neal, was electrocuted in Kentucky for the shooting of a 19-year-old youth, whose body he threw in a lake.

Howard, whom Warden Woodard described as a model prisoner, had been employed in the penitentiary kitchen as a cook. At the noon check-up he was missing. Shortly before that, eight trucks had been loaded at the central warehouse with supplies for Gallipolis and Athens hospitals.

ACCUSES CARR

Beightler Says Ex-Highway Official Burned Records.

COLUMBUS — (INS)— Charges that Matthew Carr of New Philadelphia suspended personnel director of the state highway department, burned "his own records" before leaving office were made today by Highway Director Robert S. Beightler.

At the same time, Beightler announced dismissal of 150 workers in the Marietta division, bringing to 1,300 the number dismissed from the highway department since the Republicans took over Jan. 9.

Beightler suspended Carr for 30 days after charging the personnel director ordered division heads to burn records before the Republicans came into office.

Carr has announced he would fight any removal charges.

LOYALISTS HOLD UP UNDER FIRE

Ward Off Repeated Insurgent Air, Artillery Attacks With Strong Defense.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier—Strong Loyalist defense lines today stood off repeated Insurgent attacks on the central Catalan front, military dispatches said, but the rebels reported a sudden advance on the northern sector with the capture of the town of Pons.

The armies of Rebel Gen. Francisco Franco began attempting to bring their northern wing up to the line of their advance in the center and south after being turned back by re-established Loyalist defense lines on the Cervera-Igualda highway and on the Tarragona-Barcelona road.

The highway running from Cervera to Igualda and thence 30 miles direct to Barcelona is the central dividing line in the Franco offensive and the scene of most severe fighting. Italian and Spanish divisions in this central sector are leading an attack on Igualda.

Loyalist dispatches reported that rebels turned an intense bombardment by air and artillery on the defense lines before Igualda but suffered big losses when their infantry sought to advance against Loyalist machine gunners The infantry was thrown back, the dispatches said.

On the north wing, the Insurgents apparently made limited gains and claimed that they had captured Pons.

Loyalist dispatches also reported severe fighting as rebels moving down from the north and east-

Crown for Ex-King's Son Looms If Insurgents Win

Fates Smile on Prince of Asturias Who May Get Call To Heal Sorespots Left By Spanish Civil War.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

PARIS—(AP)—All the Dons Juan in history haven't been great lovers. Two have been kings of Spain. And now, war and politics permitting, there is likely to be a Don Juan III.

For the fates have smiled on a youth still in his twenties, third son of a former king, who would ordinarily have no chance for a throne.

He is Juan, Prince of Asturias, favorite son of ex-King Alfonso.

Two factors are working strongly in his favor.

First, his homeland, split by civil war, needs a pacifier, and he, as one who has been out of the country for years but still has a legitimate claim to rule, seems to many to fill the bill.

Second, his education and virtually all his career has been "made in England," and England's money and influence probably will be strong in the Spain that rises out of the civil strife.

Steps Already Taken.

The Spanish insurgents, definitely ahead, although still not absolute victors over the government, have already taken concrete action toward restoration of the monarchy.

Late in 1938, General Francisco Franco's administration restored to former King Alfonso all the properties in Spain and all the Spanish citizenship rights taken from him by the Republican parliament in 1931.

The restoration passed without official explanation except that General Franco alone had the right to decide, when and if the war was won, how Spain should be governed.

Two-Inch Fall Today Boosts Week's Total to 7 Inches.

A two-inch top coating of snow which fell early today to bring the total in Mansfield to seven inches in the last six days, melted under rising temperatures today, but more was promised for tonight.

The temperature hovered near the freezing point today after falling to 25 degrees above zero last night.

WINDSORS TO BE IN U.S. IN MARCH

Elsa Maxwell Says French Nobleman Arranging for Visit.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(AP)—Elsa Maxwell, lecturer and party-giver, said today a French nobleman is in Hollywood incognito to arrange for a visit here in March by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. He is Comte Ambrose D. J. Du Bek, social secretary to the Duchess, known here as "Mr. Luck," Miss Maxwell stated.

He was unwilling to be interviewed, but Miss Maxwell, here on a lecture tour, said she was aware of his position in the Windsors' entourage, having met him at one of her parties in New York.

It is my understanding the duke and duchess expect to sail for the United States in March," she said. "They first will visit the duchess' former home in Maryland."

TAYLOR OPENS STATE LIQUOR BUREAU PURGE

Fires Humphrey as Chief of Enforcement; Seeks to Save Ohio $300,000 Yearly.

FORCE REDUCED ONE HALF

80 Inspectors to Lose Jobs Along With 3 Assistant Chiefs, Official Says.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Plans to reorganize the state liquor department with an annual saving of more than $300,000 were announced today by State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor.

Al Humphreys, of Columbus, chief of the enforcement division, was dismissed today, Taylor revealed, and E. A. Cullison, an assistant chief, will take over his duties temporarily.

Cuts Force One Half.

The number of inspectors in the enforcement division, Taylor said, will be reduced from 160 to 80. Some of the inspectors who are to be retained will later be replaced by new men.

In a further economy move, Taylor revealed he would cut the number of assistant chiefs in the enforcement division from five to two. This will mean another saving of about $10,800 annually.

Besides Cullison, assistant chiefs are:

H. B. Armstrong, Akron; Jonathan Finch, Cincinnati; Robert A. Seward, Lorain, and H. M. Smith, Cleveland.

Which of these men will be replaced, Taylor did not say.

The number of enforcement districts will be slashed from 13 to five, Taylor said, and personnel in the districts reduced accordingly.

Combines Divisions.

The permit and enforcement divisions will be immediately combined in an effort to secure better integrated and more economic operation. This will mean a personnel reduction to be announced later.

Humphrey's permanent successor will be named in a few days, Taylor said. Meanwhile, Cullison will perform the duties of enforcement chief but his salary of $3,600 will remain unchanged. Humphreys was paid $5,000.

HUNT RUNAWAYS

Police Asked to Aid in Search for 2 Perrysville Boys.

Police throughout Ohio today were asked by the Mansfield police department to assist in the search for two runaway youths, the older of whom is 16, who have been missing from their homes in Perrysville since early last evening.

Ross C. Byers, Perrysville, reported to authorities here at 10 p. m. yesterday that his 15-year-old son, Richard, accompanied by Richard Pollard, 16, had failed to return home after attending a basketball game.

Byers told officers that he believed the youths were headed for California. He said he had been told by associates of the boys that they had said they were going west. He could advance no reason for either youth wanting to leave home.

WOULD BAN SALE OF WILD RABBITS

Lutz Also Introduces Bill To Reduce Game Law Penalties.

Bills to prohibit the sale of wild rabbits at all times, whether killed in Ohio or imported, and to reduce the penalties for violating orders of the State Conservation council were introduced in the state legislature today by Ralph C. Lutz, Richland county representative to the general assembly.

The present state law permits the sale of wild rabbits during the hunting season from Nov. 15 to Jan. 1.

Under the other bill proposed by Lutz, penalties for violating fishing and hunting regulations would be cut from the present $25 to $200 fine to $10 to $200. He also would give magistrates discretion in revoking licenses of hunters and fishermen convicted of violations. At present, revocation is mandatory.

6 HURT IN BLAST

Workmen Injured In Explosion at Jones & Laughlin Plant.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Company officials estimated at $20,000 today the damage from a gas explosion and fire in the Jones & Laughlin steel corporation's new $25,000,000 south side strip mill. Six workmen were injured, three seriously.

The blast occurred late yesterday in the annealing department while workmen were connecting a natural gas line to deoxidizing machine.

MAYOR ASKS FOR EXPLANATION OF YEAR'S REPORT

Asserts Figures Indicate 'Apparent Indifference' In Department, Cites Drop In Arrests and 40 Per Cent Slump In Traffic Violations.

Chief Under Fire

MEADE K. BATES

Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said today that Police Chief Meade K. Bates would be called before them to explain what they termed "apparent laxity" in the police department.

The announcement was made this morning after the annual report of activities of the police department had been filed with Mayor Hunter.

A preliminary study of the report, Hunter said, indicated an "apparent attitude of indifference" in the police department and that he would seek an explanation from the chief.

Points to Report.

He based his opinion, he said, on the decrease in the number of arrests and traffic violations and a $9,000 property loss charged against the department.

Mayor Hunter said that the decrease in the number of arrests might be justifiable, but the 40 per cent decrease in traffic violations, "without a doubt" pointed to lack of enforcement of parking laws.

He added he would also ask for an explanation as to why the detective bureau had made recovery of only $8,558 of the $18,120 in property that was reported stolen during the year.

Hints at 'Soldiering.'

Hunter hinted at "soldiering" and intimated that the "indifference" within the police department might be the result of council's failure to provide additional patrolmen, a request that Bates has made annually, but which has been sidetracked because of the lack of funds.

"The department has the same number of men as in 1937," the mayor said, "and should be able to do equally as good a job as was performed during that year, but from all indications there has been a lack of enforcement."

Hunter said the chief would be called before him to explain in detail the reason for the decrease in activities as soon as he had an opportunity to make a thorough comparison with the previous year's report.

Nist, who supervises the activities of the police department by virtue of his position as safety director, said he had not received

SCHOOL REPAIR JOBS AWARDED

Three Mansfield Concerns Get Contracts for Modernizing 5 Elementary Buildings.

Three Mansfield firms were awarded contracts totaling $10,007 by the board of education at noon today for the installation of plumbing, heating and electrical equipment in five of the city's older elementary schools, which will be remodeled under the $1,000,000 school building program.

The major contract went to the E. F. Malone company on bids aggregating $8,543 for installing heating and plumbing equipment in the Newman, Prospect, Carpenter, and West Fifth street buildings.

The Charles Hoffman Plumbing company received the contract for installation of similar equipment in the Brinkerhoff school for $1,032.

Electric wiring will be installed in the five buildings by the Richland Electric company which was awarded the contract on its bid of $432.

Only four bids were received on the remodeling projects and contracts were let on low bids.

Bids on similar improvements at the Hedges, Bushnell and Bowman school buildings will be opened Jan. 26. The letting of contracts for the three projects next week will conclude the awarding of contracts in the huge school program.

A $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school, first of the 11 units in the program, is nearing completion and work is under way on the $450,000 Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

Construction of the John Simpson building is due to start within a few days, but building operations on the site will be limited until the old building has been removed.

CHANCES FADING

Smith Won't Be Confirmed for NLRB Post, Capital Hears.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Well informed senators told the United Press today that Donald Wakefield Smith could not be confirmed for another National Labor Relations board term and that President Roosevelt probably would abandon him.

Smith's removal, under those circumstances, appeared to be the alternative to an embarrassing repudiation of a major New Deal appointee. He is serving now under a recess appointment but in the ordinary course his name would have to be submitted to the senate for confirmation. Mr. Roosevelt could avoid the dispute by sending up the name of some other and Smith would leave office on the confirmation of his successor.

Former Rep. David J. Lewis of Maryland has been mentioned as a likely candidate for the job.

Hunt Motive In Claw Hammer Murder of Indianapolis Woman

(By Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS — Detectives looked for a man and a motive today in the mysterious hammer slaying of blond, attractive Mrs. Carrie Lelah Romig, 55-year-old wife of a young ten cent-store lunchroom employe.

Mrs. Romig, formerly married to a wealthy Hoosier manufacturer, was found dead last night on a bed in her five-room first-floor flat. Deputy Coroner Norman R. Booher said she had been struck in the right temple and forehead with a small claw hammer which lay nearby, broken in two.

Investigators followed up two leads:

1. A statement of the dead woman's husband, Daniel Romig, 28, that several diamond rings and other jewelry were missing from the apartment.

2. Evidence that a man she knew had called on her some time in the day.

The husband found the body when he got home from work. The front door was open. Two nearly empty coffee cups, cigaret stubs and candy were in the living room. The death hammer had been taken from the pantry.

A sister, Mrs. A. J. Wernert, of Shelbyville, said Mrs. Romig was divorced three years ago from Fred W. Kennedy of Shelbyville, owner of the Kennedy Carliner and Bag company with plants there and in Canada.

No Equipment Missing, Myrna Declares In Reply to Bricker

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Mrs. Myrna Smith, former secretary to Gov. Martin L. Davey, denied today that equipment was missing from the governor's office when Gov. John W. Bricker took over.

In response to Bricker's order that the state auditor check up on reports that "considerable" equipment, including new typewriters in the governor's office, was missing from state departments, Mrs. Smith wrote to Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson:

"From the information I have, only one or two typewriters were purchased by the governor's office. Your records will indicate that. The rest of the typewriters were inherited from the previous administration. Naturally, they would be old."

Mrs. Smith, now a member of the state parole board, said most of the typewriters in the governor's office had been furnished by departments from which Davey "borrowed" stenographers and were returned when the work was done.

The auditor, who, Bricker said, is charged with keeping an inventory on state property, assigned two examiners to ascertain location of all equipment.

Ferguson said that the examiners would make a complete check of all physical property in each department.

Bricker said that he had been informed that expensive cameras

Adams Disputes Roosevelt Charge Slash Perils WPA

DEM SENATOR OUT TO BLOCK HIKE IN FUND

Lawmaker Takes Issue With Claim Million Workers Face June Job Loss.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator Adams (D-Colo) took issue today with President Roosevelt's confertion that more than a million WPA workers must be dropped by June 1, if congress votes only $725,000,0000 for relief.

Adams, chairman of a senate appropriations subcommittee studying the problem, argued that by spreading the reduction over four months, it would be limited to 600,000 workers.

"Of course," he said, "if the present relief load were maintained through the winter, the cut would reach more than a million."

President Renews Appeal.

The president renewed his appeal at a press conference yesterday for an $875,000,000 appropriation to operate WPA until June 30. If the senate agrees to the house-approved cut of $150,000,000, he said, relief benefits would be lost by between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons—the families of workers thrown off WPA rolls.

Two senators said an informal poll of Adams subcommittee showed there was sufficient strength to block any increase or decrease in the $750,000,000 house bill.

They also said a cross-section check indicated that any administration move to increase the appropriation on the senate floor would fail. The president's lieutenants, however, were expected to take a cue from his press conference statement and make a determined fight to restore the funds to $875,000,000.

Advocates of a larger appropriation testified before Adams' predominately-conservative subcommittee yesterday.

Mayor La Guardia of New York urged a $915,000,000 fund. He said he "pleaded and begged" the committee to provide not less than $875,000,000. La Guardia, head of the United States Conference of Mayors, said that "private industry is failing to absorb the unemployed."

"It is impossible for the cities to absorb any more of the unemployed with their own relief funds," he said.

David Lasser, president of the Workers Alliance, asked for a $1,050,000,000 appropriation, but said that if this were not granted congress should appropriate $360,000,000 to last through February and March. Later, he said, a further allocation could be considered.

Watson, Original 'Peck's Bad Boy,' Dies at Age of 77

MILWAUKEE, Wis.,—(INS)—Funeral services were to be held today for Edward J. Watson, whose pranks as a youth inspired "Peck's Bad Boy." He died last night at the age of 77.

Watson's father was a friend of George W. Peck, editor of a weekly paper at the time. The distraught parent complained of the practical jokes played by his boy until Peck set them down on paper in a series of stories.

Later mayor of Milwaukee and governor of Wisconsin, Peck continued a life-long friendship with Watson who was fond of telling about the stories.

Peck, he said, once met him and apologized for not sharing the profits.

"'They made me a quarter of a million'," Watson would quote Peck as saying. "'and you deserved some of it. I'd give it to you now except this is all I have left'."

And Peck, Watson would say, held up a street car transfer.

A messenger boy when he was immortalized as a scamp, Watson later became an executive of the same telegraph company.

Naming of the new Johnny Appleseed Junior high school has attracted the attention of Henry A. Pershing, South Bend, Ind., publisher and authority on Johnny Appleseed lore, who told the Mansfield school board today that he plans to be here for the dedication of the building. In a letter to the board, Pershing said he had spent three years writing a biography of Johnny Appleseed which was published recently. The new junior high school building is scheduled for completion late this year, and it probably will be nearly a year before the building is dedicated.

A new method of getting elementary school children to attend activities at Senior high school was attempted yesterday by A. L. Derr, director of the Senior high school operetta "In Old Vienna," and it proved to be successful. Instead of having the children come to the high school alone for the school children's matinee of the operetta yesterday, Derr chartered buses to meet the children at the school, deliver them to the high school, and after the show returned them to their schools. As the result over 1,200 children attended the matinee, crowding the auditorium. Bowman school alone sent over 200, as compared with about 25 that attended high school events in the past.

DRAFT $18,000 SEWER PROJECT

City Officials to Seek WPA Aid in Laying 1,620 Feet of Storm Lines.

A proposed $18,000 storm sewer project that would provide four weeks work for 80 WPA workers was being prepared by city officials today for presentation to state WPA headquarters for approval.

The project calls for the construction of 1,620 feet of storm sewer, ranging in size from 15 to 36 inches on Bentley avenue from Park avenue east to East Second street and includes the installation of five inlets and five manholes.

Glenn Weller, WPA-City Engineer who is drafting the proposal said that the job schedules probably would be sent to Columbus next week.

He said it was hoped that approval could be gained before March 1 so workmen now employed on a Scholl road sewer, which is expected to be completed by that time, may be shifted to the new project.

Of the total cost, the city would be required to finance approximately $8,000 for the purchase of the major portion of the materials while the federal government would be asked to provide for all labor on the project.

The city's share of the cost is to be financed from funds set up in the annual appropriation measure approved by city council at a special meeting last Tuesday.

Productive Credit Group to Meet in Ashland Thursday.

Three directors will be elected by the Production Credit association, headed by W. E. Stough of Springfield township, at the organization's annual meeting Thursday in the Church of Christ, Ashland.

Speakers at the session will be George B. Ganyard, Richland county agricultural agent; F. L. Kerr of the Production Credit association, Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. M. V. Funk, secretary of the Muskingum County National Farm Loan association.

Stough is one of the three directors of the association whose terms expire this year.

The association, which operates in Richland, Ashland, Wayne, Knox and Holmes counties, has 815 members. Founded in 1934, it has made operating loans amounting to $1,431,298 to farmers in the five member counties.

URGES GARAGE FOR ARMORY

State Would Spend $10,000 Here Remodeling Old Stable.

The old stables at the Mansfield armory will be converted into a modern garage if the $500,000 bill prepared by Adjutant General Emil F. Marx of Ohio is approved by the legislature.

Capt. Robert J. Nichols, in charge of the battery and president of the Armory board, said that a $10,000 allocation is included in the bill to remodel the building, on the Ashland road.

The old stable, which formerly housed 36 head of horses, would be remodeled to accommodate 10 trucks. The battery was motorized several years ago, and horses are no longer used. The stable is the brick wing at the northeast of the main building.

OPERETTA CAST, APPLAUDED BY 2,300, STAGES FINALE TONIGHT

Potential stars of the light opera whose two presentations of "In Old Vienna" were applauded by more than 2,300 persons yesterday, will make their final appearance at the Senior High school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. today.

A cast of over 70 Senior High pupils take part in the tuneful three-act operetta which attracted a near-capacity audience last evening after an overflow crowd of 1,223 children from 10 elementary schools witnessed a special matinee in the afternoon.

The lead roles were played by Kathleen MacIntosh and Willis Lewis. Miss MacIntosh, popular young soprano, handled her acting and singing parts well in the role of Ilona, daughter of a Gypsy chief, as did Lewis, who played J. Jennison Jones, advertising expert for an American pickle company, and who spent most of his time taking candid camera shots to be used in advertising promotions.

Although he had no singing part, Willis Wygant gave a good portrayal of Hans Maier, the proprietor of Wurtzelpraeter Inn in Vienna who enjoyed in finding ways of getting money from American tourists stopping at his inn.

Sharing top honors with the leads were William Hollingshead and Eugene Gump, cast as Bumski and Rumski, two tiptoeing sleuths of the Vienna detective bureau, who furnished most of the comedy in the show.

Javetta Bookmyer, as June Pennington, a young American heiress, was applauded in her vocal numbers. SCOTLAND YARD TAKES STEPS TO CURB OUTRAGES

London Convinced Disorders Part of Irish Campaign for Northern Republic.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Extraordinary police guards were posted at No. 10 Downing street, the houses of parliament, government departments and foreign embassies today because Scotland Yard received word that Irish extremists planned a long, intensified bombing campaign.

The police guard at No. 10 Downing street, the official residence of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, was heavily reinforced during the early hours of this morning. Policemen were stationed at intervals of 50 yards throughout the area.

Scotland Yard authorities decided to strengthen the guards at the homes of cabinet members, and to station policemen inside as well as outside government buildings.

Call Special Constables.

Special constables, who constitute a police reserve, were called out to reinforce the regular police force.

Police authorities were convinced that a series of bombing outrages in London and the provinces were perpetrated by agents of the "Irish republican army," which announced by means of posters Sunday that it intended to force British soldiers and British authorities out of northern Ireland, in furtherance of a campaign for the "enthronement" of an Irish republic comprising northern Ireland as well as the new state of Eire.

London, Birmingham and Manchester seemed the particular targets of the terrorists.

Three sacks containing gelignite and dynamite were found late last night tied to an electric power pylon on the banks of the Manchester ship canal at Barton, near Manchester.

The placing of these explosives was typical of the efforts made since the start of the campaign Sunday to cripple power plants, water works and communications.

FAIR ENOUGH!

New Deal Beginning to Reveal Serious Intent To Muzzle Press of U. S.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The campaign of Mr. Roosevelt, Thurman Arnold and Harold Ickes against the newspapers closely follows the method of Hitler's preparatory work against Czechoslovakia and Mussolini's build-up of his case against Abyssinia. The axis dictators started at a murmur and worked up to a wild howl of outrage. The New Deal, after a long session of needling, is now beginning to reveal a serious intention to muzzle or starve the American kind of journalism, which is generally admitted to be the best journalism in the world.

Meanwhile the New Deal has been building up its own type of press. Herbert Hoover has accused the administration of employing a thousand paid publicity agents daily and hourly to praise, color and sell its official acts and "pollute thought with the drugs of propaganda."

In moving for the abolition of the so-called national emergency council, Representative Bruce Barton charged that the council was only a front for a band of 290 press agents "engaged in disseminating publicity for the New Deal."

"The council maintains a field staff in the various states supposedly for the purpose of coordinating federal emergency activities," he said. "But in reality this staff constitutes a corps of publicity agents for the Democratic party."

Both Hoover and Barton are experts on publicity and propaganda but they are prejudiced and therefore may exaggerate. However, it is well known that this administration has hired more newspapermen as propagandists than any other, with the possible exception of Wilson's temporary wartime machine, and it should be remembered that Mussolini, as one of his earliest appeals for willing praise, bribed all the journalists of Italy to go along with him by creating a system of job protection and other benefits in the privately owned press. He didn't have to take his press agents into the government. The government, which was Mussolini's, forced the press, which became a government agency, to grant them conditions which a free press could not maintain.

Mr. Arnold has made a pass at the advertising revenues of the papers in a statement arguing that advertising fosters unjust monopoly by enabling the advertiser to sell more goods than a non-advertiser to the dertiment of the latter. Thus in a move ostensibly intended to protect the non-advertiser the newspapers would be deprived of the income by which they live and the field would be cleared for some new kind of journalism.

Possibly the new kind would be the European type which prints only propaganda and picks up its money from political parties, munitions makers and foreign interests. It might be a government press. The range for conjecture is wide, the only certainty being that the American type of press, with its fine virtues and its acknowledged by not capital faults, would be put to death as a penalty for opposing the New Deal.

Ickes argues along the same lines in holding that because papers to live by the money received from the advertising trade they must favor the interests of advertisers and betray the interests of the public. He refuses to admit that it is possible for a paper and an advertiser to make an even trade of space for an agreed amount of money without any hidden and dishonest obligation on the part of the papers to perform implied but unstated favors for the customer.

None of them has yet openly admitted an intention to kill off the existing type of American newspaper, but the objective reveals itself in their remarks, for if Arnold and Ickes had their way the papers simply could not live. The president has been less bold, leaving the heavy duty to his two Henleins, after the manner of Hitler in Czechoslovakia.

They have been turning on the heat with occasional remarks from him, and they have now reached the stage of arguing, per Ickes, that the press should be but isn't, a servant of a free democracy.

If that is what it should be but isn't, then possibly the New Deal will feel a duty to make it so. The method is first to convict it by propaganda, then to kill it by laws curtailing the advertising and consequent starvation and, finally, to compel the new American press to serve free democracy.

Mr. Ickes obviously feels qualified to decide just what constitutes service and what is disservice to free democracy and in the final development of the plan might be induced to serve as national editor, perhaps from a quiet sanctum in the Washington Naval hospital, where board, room and medical service may be had by political guests of free democracy at the nominal fee of $3.75 a day.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Only three years ago a young blond chap and a cocky little fellow in a high silk hat were making the rounds in Hollywood. "Time on our hands" might have been their theme song, except that they were too busy looking for work to get in any singing.

The blond chap (aw, his name's Edgar Bergen) tried to get a job acting, either with or without the little fellow (and his name's Charlie McCarthy). He tried to tell Hollywood he'd make a good dialogue writer. But Hollywood was bored. Edgar and Charlie went back to Chicago, where they knew they could have regular meals, anyway.

What has happened since then you all know, and it all adds up to the fact that "time on my hands" is likely to be a missing element in the pair's life for a good spell to come.

Funny, how these things work out. Success in pictures, fame on the air. They bring a fine home, maybe a swimming pool—and precious little time to enjoy either.

Not that Messrs. Bergen and McCarthy are complaining, but—

"I work five times as hard as I did before Hollywood recognized our existence," says Bergen. "Before, I used to spend a great deal of my time looking for work. Now work comes looking for me."

* * *

At present Bergen and McCarthy are spending about nine hours daily at Universal, helping W. C. Fields prove that "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." Then there's their weekly air show, not missed once in nearly three years, and requiring two new comedy routines a week. Bergen works those up at night after movie work.

There are 25 McCarthy novelties on the market, each representing a "deal" which had to be investigated and closed, like many others which have been rejected. And then—benefits.

As a double-talk artist, Bergen is the town's busiest actor. He must speak his own lines, do his own acting, speak and act for Charlie at the same time.

It's uncanny, the way he gives that little fellow personality, and yet retains his own. At Bergen's house, I understand, the servants speak of the woodpecker's feast as solicitously and admiringly as they do of the master—and are as proud of Charlie's wardrobe.

Incidentally, I picked up a new chapter in the McCarthy-Fields "feud," relating to bulbous-nosed Bill's first visit to the Santa Anita racetrack this season. Here:

Charlie: "Mr. Fields, I heard that you rode one of the horses at Santa Anita yesterday."

Fields: "As a matter of fact, I did, Charles, my diminutive little chum."

Charlie: "What a jockey! I suppose, to hear you tell it, you won by a mile?"

Fields: "No Charles, I am not given to tarradiddle—I won by a nose."

Charlie: "Oh, just a length-and-a-half. . . ."

It's a good thing that members of Beta chapter of the Tri Gam sorority like tuna fish and jello . . . otherwise they would have gone hungry the other evening when Edith Courtney entertained with a covered-dish dinner at her home. The girls decided beforehand that they would surprise each other . . . and bring whatever dish they wanted to the dinner—without making previous plans . . . and they were surprised all right! Because the menu leaned very definitely to tuna fish—there were six dishes of it in some shape or form . . . and two molds of jello for dessert.

Miss Fairfax Criticizes Dictators

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A week or two ago this column suggested that European dictators would accomplish their ambitions to bring about mass marriages and produce more babies to be turned into soldiers, if they'd only create an Old Ladies' Auxiliary to give them some definite information about the facts of life.

The grandmas would inform the pro tem Caesars that nothing helps along falling love like throwing young people together in shops, factories, offices, even on the college campus. In such surroundings the young Susceptibles, who are supposed to be working and studying are amazed to find Cupid sneaking up on them and the first thing they know, they are wildly romantically in love, and deciding to marry and live happily ever after.

The Fascist decree demands that nine men shall be employed to every woman. And the New Year's gift from the Nazis to 400,000 young women is a "back to the farm girls" order.

The National Socialist Peoples Welfare organization, provides summer vacation homes for tired mothers, during their absence, substitute workers are provided for their places in factories or homes.

Here again is where the wise Old Ladies Auxiliary would be able to give some very valuable information to Der Fuehrer and President Friedrich Syrup of the Reich's institute.

While the tired mothers were off on their vacations, human nature being what it is, their husbands would probably fall in love with the rosy-cheeked young substitute workers? And when the tired mothers come home, it would be to more grief and headaches than they had in the first place.

Expert Tells How to Keep Hair Up

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women who are sporting the uppity hairdress complain bitterly. They can't keep it under control. It has a fiendish desire to scramble itself into tangles and nests This problem is giving the hairdressers considerable trouble. New designs means new business. If the cash customer is just a poor weak worm, won't try to master the new arrangement, the pulchritude industry is in for a disappointment.

In "Modern Beauty Shop," a magazine devoted to the beauty trade, an article outlines a system of discipline for tresses that rebel against restraint. One requirement is a strong permanent wave. Without it, even naturally curly hair won't stay put in its upswept magnificence.

"Protecting the high lines of an upswept coiffure begins with the correct shaping of the hair," says the writer. "Unnecessary length and excess bulk have a tendency to pull the hair down. A second method practical for more tailored styles, is to taper the hair from crown to nape in a modified shingle, so that short ends may be swept unward without being made into curls.

"Use of a finger waving lotion of the proper consistency is another important factor in giving sufficient body to the hair to hold an 'up' line."

The writer goes on to say that is is important to form tight foundation ringlets at the crown, then one has an anchorage. When the locks are arranged these ringlets are combined with those brought up from the nape line.

Brushing, he says, helps tremendously in training the hair the way it should go. There should be a vigorous brushing before the shampoo, also after the pattern has been set with a lotion and thoroughly dried.

Inconspicuous combs can be used to make locks stay put. A comb holding up rear ends can be covered with rolls, puffs or ringlets as one's heart desires. Side locks also must have support, combs serve for that purpose. There's a special one known as a tuck comb. Tucks itself away and works at the job.

"A light spray of lacquer along the hairline," the writer adds, "holds stray hairs in place and prevents the appearance of scolding locks. An atomizer is used on an area two inches above the back hairline."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

We DID not have long to wait for Noel's reaction to Mary's dancing costume. Even before I entered the room in the wake of what I had fondly dreamed would be an "effective entrance" I heard his gasp of dismayed disapproval.

"Mary!" he exclaimed. "You don't mean that you are going to dance in public in that—that—"

"'Shred' is a good word, darling," she advised him coolly. "And 'rag' might do in a pinch, it is a bit scanty, I admit, but darling, not half as abreviated as the bathing costumes you see—and wear—every time you go in swimming."

Noel's frown was portentous now.

"But you're not going in swimming," he retorted. "You're appearing on a public stage with every eye in the audience raking you."

"Oh! what a perfectly horrible way of putting it!" Mary said, her eyebrows lifting in delicate, playful disdain. "I actually feel as if briers had scratched me."

"You ought to feel that way," her husband retorted. "And as for your parallel of going in swimming, at a beach you're only one of—of—"

"Say thousands," Mary supplied with another grin, while her young husband's face grew blacker at her levity.

"Exactly," he snapped. "But all this nonsense isn't answering my question. Aunt Madge said she was going to interpolate a dance for you in your role. Is this the costume you're going to wear while you're dancing?"

"None other, my little chickadee," Mary returned blithely, and I saw with regret that a very devil of impishness had entered into her. But I saw something else also, and that very clearly: That there was absolutely nothing I could do about it. She had the bit between her teeth and was running away.

Noel rose slowly from his chair, and his face was a frozen mask of anger.

Wants to Leave.

"Then," he said slowly, icily. "I am afraid you will have to excuse me from looking at the rehearsal of your dance. I think I will leave now for the farm, if you are willing, Aunt Madge."

"But I am not willing," I said quickly and with steel in my voice. "You know very well what havoc would result should your father find out that we have deceived him, and that you are in the city."

"There's only a thousand to one chance that he or his detectives would spot me if I left New York immediately," Noel said sulkily.

"But it is the thousandth chance against which we must guard," I said firmly. "This is not a matter between you and Mary alone. I am very deeply involved in it. I cannot permit you to let me down as you would be doing if you left the hotel. It was a most necessary part of our arrangement that for the duration of this—interlude—you should remain incommunicado here under the assumed name which you gave when you registered. I must insist that you keep to that agreement."

Icy Formality.

He was silent for a long second, manifestly struggling with the black dog of temper that was riding him. Then he bowed to me with icy, formal courtesy.

"It must be as you wish, of course," he said. "Will you accord me the courtesy of going to your sitting room while this dance is in rehearsal?"

"Of course you may use my room." I said with equal formality, not daring to look at Mary for fear of seeing the reflection of Noel's black anger in her eyes. But when Noel, without another word to either of us, had stalked out of the room into my sitting room, closing the door after him with a subdued but decided bang, Mary gave a low laugh. Looking at her in surprise, I saw that her eyes were filled, not with wrath, but with gleeful amusement.

"'On with the dance'," she quoted. "'Let joy be unconfined'."

My Neighbor Says:

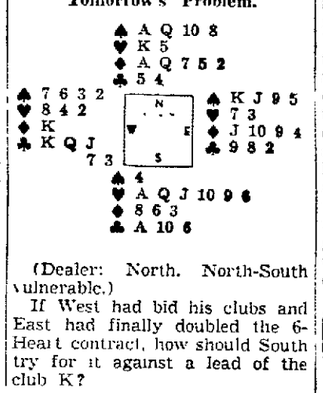
Perfume is alluring only after it has been on the skin many minutes use immediately after bathing.

The cyclamen is a bit temperamental; it needs the coolest location in the house, and little sunshine, the morning light being sufficient Water it carefully and without getting any moisture on the foliage or the leaves. It should be moist, but water standing around the roots will soon rot them. The primula is another heat-dreading plant.

When you pour water off boiled potatoes, save it and use instead of water or milk for your bread, sponge or coffee cake. If the water is salted you will require a little less salt when mixing dough.

Cook enough cereal at one time to use for at least two days. Pour 1 tablespoon of cold water over the top and when stored in the ice box a hard crust will not form on the top.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If West had bid his clubs and East had finally doubled the 6-Heart contract, how should South try for it against a lead of the club K?

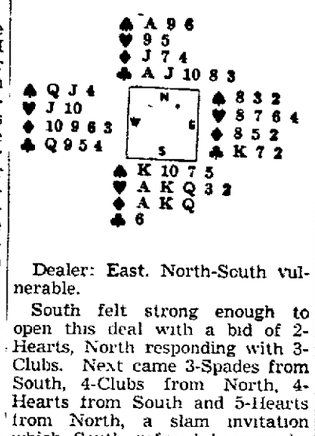
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LADY LUCK AT BAT

There must be some kind of a divinity that watches over careless players once in a while. He or perhaps it is a she, Lady Luck—will dramatically pull the contract safely into port in spite of all the risks entailed by bizarre play. The only trouble about depending upon such help is that it can be trusted only seldom, whereas a bit of careful thought in advance will pay dividends frequently.



Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.

South felt strong enough to open this deal with a bid of 2-Hearts, North responding with 3-Clubs. Next came 3-Spades from South, 4-Clubs from North, 4-Hearts from South and 5-Hearts from North, a slam invitation which South refused because he felt he had already gone pretty strong by opening with a game-guarantee two bid on a hand with no surplus values. If the slam was there, he reasoned, North would have to bid it, not invite it

After the diamond 10 was led, South's soundest play was probably to try three rounds of spades, so as to be in shape to ruff the fourth if the suit didn't break, and then to go for trumps. This would make it pretty sure that at the worst only one trick could be lost in each major

But no. South won the diamond lead, led to the club A, returned a small club, East playing his K and getting it ruffed, and then South took two more high diamonds, risking a ruff unnecessarily. A spade was led, West false-carding the Q and the A winning, next a spade to the K and three high hearts, establishing East's 8. A spade to West's J, however, made the contract secure. Had East been able to win this, his heart 8 could have dropped South's last trump and the club Q would have been the last trick. But West, no matter what he led, could not help giving South a trick on a ruff with his last trump, making the contract.

THEATERS

BETTY DAVIS grows in stature as an actress from year to year until now she is the one feminine star in Hollywood who will play any type of role so long as it is "meaty." After several of the beauteous stars have turned down an opportunity to play "The Old Maid," Miss Davis took the role. In her current working picture "Juarez," she plays the Empress Carlotta who slowly goes mad and it is said that her work will fascinate even the psychiatrists. Her clothes will be a reflection of her mental stress, ranging from light gray to somber and finally to jet black as her mind gives way. "The Old Main" hasn't gone into production yet.

Stage Show Presented.

The Ohio theater will open its 11th birthday anniversary celebration tomorrow with a stage show that comes highly recommended from other cities where it has shown. "Broadway After Dark" offers variety and talent in its five acts, not forgetting the Chicago Rockets, a chorus of 10 and a swing band. Ted and Art Miller, billed as Nitwits; the Six De Cardos, an acrobatic troupe, and the Three Siegfreds as Roman gladiators, have won enthusiastic press notices. Haig and Haig—not the kind that comes in a pinched bottle, but Ray and Sylvia, are a dancing team; and Radcliff and Johnson, comedy and dance novelty duo, round out the revue. The stage show and "Mr. Moto's Last Warning" on the screen, run through Friday.

Two New Features.

For the second week the Madison offers two new features on the last half of the week's bill. "The Girl Downstairs" and "Charlie Chan In Honolulu" are combined this week The former has Fanchot Tone and little Franciska Gaal in a sophisticated comedy in which a kitchen maid crashed society. Walter Connolly heads a good supporting cast The Chan picture is the first one in which Sidney Toler replaces the late Warner Oland.

War Against Crime.

Jack Holt takes a fling at fighting organized crime and cleaning up a city in "Crime Takes a Holiday," one of the Park attractions for the last half of the week, starting Thursday He is a district attorney who wars against the racketeers who prey on small business concerns. Marcia Ralston and Russell Hopton in the cast. The second feature is a re-issue of "Evergreen" with lovely Jesse Matthews, English star.

Glorifies Basket Game.

Basketball is glorified as a college sport in "Campus Confessions," and authenticity colors the game with the presence of Hank Luisetti, Stanford university star and rated one of the greatest of all basketball players. A happy-go-lucky quartet is made of Luisetti, William Henry, Eleanore Whitney and Betty Grable. The picture opens at the Ritz today, with "Gateway," a story of Ellis Island, with Don Ameche and Arleen Whelan.

Husband Loves Self.

Walter Pidgeon, who came to pictures years ago from the stage and who frequently goes back to the stage, is one of the more attractive players of mature age in Hollywood. He brings suavity and self-assurance to the role of the husband in "Man-Proof," who is in love only with himself—but who doesn't realize it until his wife tells him. Rosalind Russell is the wife, Myrna Loy and Franchot Tone another twosome. The Majestic has this film, with "Rosalie" on its current bill.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, January 19.

Surprising developments, of a far-reaching influence in your life, may occur today. There may be change of major importance. This may call for change in environs and objectives and may bring a dramatic, romantic experience or extraordinary adventure into the unknown. Superiors, elders and a feminine force are effective in putting over possibly audacious programs.

Those whose birthday it is need not be surprised if a revolutionary force may be precipitated into their life during the coming year, demanding a complete change in the plans, aims, objectives, surroundings and associations. This sudden occurence may spell adventure, romance, dramatic experience, or it may relate to some great discovery or unique creative talent, in which superiors, elders and feminine approval may prove a determining factor or inspiration.

A child born on this day will be unusually talented, original, independent in thought and action and may reach some sort of public recognition or a dramatic career, through unique romance or adventure. It may travel far.

Wolf Collects 10 Straight Strikes In 289 Game

YUNCKER SPORTS HOLD NO FEAR FOR CAMERA OR '13' JINX.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASKETBALL teams are not superstitious. At least, not the Yuncker Sports. Monday night out at the high school before their game with the Herrick Hi-Speeds, the Sports posed for a picture. This is supposed to bring bad luck. But they went out and won the ball game—and, believe it or not, it was their 13th straight victory . . . .It seems like old days over there at Ashland college. Not since the days of "Flip" Lersch have the Eagles soared as high as they are this winter. Mansfielders have been helping to pack the gym at the home games. . . . If Toledo's game with Heidelberg had not been postponed Friday, Chuck Chuchovits, the Rockets' spectacular scorer, would have been a Mansfield visitor tonight. But the tilt was rescheduled for tonight, and so Chuck goes to Tiffin instead. Chuck had agreed to accompany Norman Cohen and his Toledo football pictures, which will be shown to the Junior Association of Commerce boys tonight. . . . Selkamite, cracked trotter owned by Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus, is listed among the Ohio eligibles for the Hambletonian, the harness game's Kentucky Derby. . .

Harmon Breakfasts With Coach Schmidt.

WHAT'S this we hear about Madison's Gene Harmon having breakfast with Coach Francis Schmidt down in Columbus the other morning? Could it be that the Rams' high-scoring ace is headed toward Ohio State? . . . Dutch Clark doesn't think the 1939 outlook for the Cleveland Rams is dull after seeing John Drake steal the big all-star grid show in Los Angeles the other day. "Even if I don't have anybody but Drake," Clark said, "I'll win my share of games." . . .Joe Majoy, who handled the blocking assignment on Russ Murphy's 1937 eleven, may enroll at Mississippi State. He's through at Mansfield high this month. . . . Duke's share of the Rose Bowl receipts was $100,000, which will be applied on its new gym. . . . The year "Old Hoss" Radbourne won 60 games for Providence in the old National league he won 12 from Cleveland, 11 from Detroit and 10 from Buffalo. . . . . .

Bad Nose Delays Armstrong Tour.

THE reason Henry Armstrong was forced to delay the start of his mid-western exhibition tour was because Baby Arizmendi knocked his nose out of shape in their last meeting . . . . Henry'll show in Akron Monday . . . .Tony Aquila, groundkeeper at Ohio State, once was a resident of nearby Huron. . . . This year's state high school cage champions will receive hugh gold-filled trophies, featuring a miniature map of Ohio, a globe and a towering basketball player. Every player and coach in the state finals will receive mounted statuettes.

Second Place Clubs Have No Cinches

The First M. E. and Mayflower Congregational quintets tied for second place, engage second division foes in Class A Church league games at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, but trouble awaits both clubs.

The Methodists meet Temple Emanuel at 8:45 p. m., and their foe is anything but a setup. Mayflower meets Episcopal in the opener at 6:45, with nothing certain as to a victory.

Central M. E. faces Park Avenue Baptist in the second game, while the first-place First Lutheran meet St. John Evangelical in the final at 9:45

BUDGE WINS TO STEP TWO MATCHES IN FRONT

The scarlet-garbed Mephisto will make one of the early defenses of his title on the Mansfield mat at the Armory, Friday night when he meets Silent Rattan of Toledo in the headline match.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality club attempted to sign Weidner for Mephisto Friday, but the ex-champion was forced to refuse the chance to regain his crown because of an injury suffered in his defeat.

Nolan announced that Friday's match will be a two out of three fall affair, with a 90-minute time limit. No advance in prices has been anounced.

Sohioans Face Canfield Club

Vie in Headline Game at Friendly House Thursday.

The Blue Goose team is in second place, two games behind the Billiards, while the Canfield five is in third place A victory f r the Canfields will pull them up into a tie for the runner-up post. They tangle in the middle game at 7:45 p. m.

The Rex team meets the cellar Raemelton Farm quintet a. 8:45, while the Miller Dairys and Musille Cigars open the program at 6:45.

Scots Take Slim Lead In Conference Race

Wooster Defeats Mt. Union to Register Fifth Straight Victory.

COLUMBUS—(U P)—The Scots of Wooster college spurted ahead by a nose today in the closely-bunched race for the Ohio conference basketball leadership.

Coach Mose Hole's five routed Mt. Union, 34 to 23, last night for its fifth conference victory of the season without defeat. Dave Henderson and Frank Gernert, guards, led the Wooster attack with nine points each.

Capital Can Tie Scots.

But Wooster's front ranking ahead of Capital, Case and Ashland who have four victories each probably will be short lived unless the victoryless Kenyon team pulls an upset over Capital tonight.

The Caps go after their fifth win against the unlucky Kenyon crew at Gambier while Ashland renews conference duty against Kent State Thursday night. Case is idle in league play this week.

In other conference games last night, Muskingum marked up win No. 2 by defeating Oberlin, 52 to 37, while Ohio Northern edged Denison, 38 to 36, to draw even with Denison in the conference with two triumphs and three defeats each.

Among the individual point-makers, Everett gathered 14 and Alberta, 12 for Muskingum, and Myer, 12 for Denison.

Outside conference play, Marshall nosed out a surprisingly strong Cincinnati outfit, 23 to 22, on Marshall's home floor; Xavier trounced St. Joseph's of Indiana, 45 to 33, to repeat a victory earlier this year; Youngstown won its first game, by defeating West Liberty Teachers, 36 to 34, while Thiel handed Hiram only its second setback this year, 37 to 23.

Buckeye Teams Play.

Besides the Capital-Kenyon meeting, tonight's program includes two Buckeye conference games. Ohio U. should have little trouble taking care of Miami at Athens for the Bobcats' third conference triumph against no defeats while Ohio Wesleyan was favored to measure Dayton at Delaware.

Toledo plays Heidelberg at Tiffin in a second Ohio conference tilt.

Resume City Rifle Series Thursday

The second of a series of matches to determine the city team indoor rifle championship will be staged at the Mansfield club's indoor range located in the basement of the Schmidt and Peat hardware store on Bowman street at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Entrance to the club is at the rear.

The Mansfield club won the first match in the series with the Richland Gasco club by a decisive margin last week.

East Mansfielders Hang Up Victories

East Mansfield school cagers scored two cage victories over Lincoln Heights in the East Mansfield gym Tuesday.

The 7th-8th grade team won, 42 to 2, with R. Eckels and D. Poston leading the way with 12 points apiece and the 5th-6th graders hung up a 17 to 3 victory. The only basket scored by the Lincoln Heights teams was shot by Wiley. The East Mansfield girls won over Lincoln Heights, 42 to 34, in a volleyball game.

The Baptists, led by Rayburn's 11 points, defeated First M. E., 29 to 7, after holding a 17 to 4 advantage at the intermission, and Moorhead, with 10 points, led First Christian to a 25 to 15 victory over First Lutheran. Christian led 17 to 6 at the half. The defeat was the second straight for the Lutherans.

Mayflower Congregational whipped Central M. E., 13 to 9, in the other tilt.

Galento Ready For Brescia

NEWARK, N. J.—(INS)—Avowedly in perfect condition and down to a perfect 235, two-ton Tony Galento the National Boxing association's No. 1 challenger for the world heavyweight championship, was ready today for his attempt to defeat Jorge Brescia, of the Argentine, tomorrow night, and move a step nearer to an eventual crack at Joe Louis.

The fat and short Jersey tavern-keeper concluded one of the most strenuous pre-fight conditioning campaigns yesterday and reiterated his hope of knocking Brescia out within two or three rounds.

Reserves to Play At Home Friday

Although the Tygers will be on the road Friday night, a pair of games featuring the Mansfield high reserve teams and Simpson will be staged on the home court.

The No. 1 reserve team will meet Union, Harry Mehock, assistant athletic director, announced today, with Simpson junior high and the No. 2 reserves colliding in the other game. The Union-Reserve game is scheduled at 7 p. m.

An admission of 10 cents will be charged, Mehock said, and the receipts will be turned over to the Infantile Paralysis committee.

Butler High Cagers Turn Back Lucas

Regain Winning Stride After Two Straight Defeats.

Butler high school courtiers halted their two-game losing streak on their home court last night when they dumped Lucas, 32 to 23, in a thrill-packed affray.

The Bulldogs, who had won seven straight games prior to the defeats, gave a fine performance last night as they led Coach Alfred Axe's men all the way.

Butler leaped into a 5 to 2 lead in the opening period and held a 9 to 7 advantage at the half. Play moved into the fourth quarter with Coach Bob Burgett's cagers holding an 18 to 13 lead.

Twenty-four points were registered in the fourth period, with Butler scoring 14 to add to its advantage.

Bob Boals led the Butler contingent with 10 points, while Wendall Ward, one of the Richland county league scoring leaders, tallied eight. Tom Greulich was high for Lucas with eight.

Donald Boales sank a one-handed shot in the fading seconds to give the Butler reserves a 23 to 21 victory over the Lucas seconds in the preliminary game.

Y. M. C. A. Revamps Gym Skeds For Simpson, Hedges Students

GYM classes for Y. M. C. A. members attending John Simpson and Hedges junior high schools have been revamped because of the changes in the school schedules, Donald D. Cram, physical director at the Y, announced today.

In order to accomodate students attending school in the afternoons, the Y has arranged to hold morning gym classes at 10 o'clock on Mondays and Wednesdays. Classes will be held at 2 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for students attending school in the forenoon.

Swimming periods will be given after each gym class, Cram stated in addition to the swim periods for both classes at 11:30 o'clock on Saturdays. These classes are open to all boys of junior high age.

Cram also announced the formation of a beginner's swimming class at 9 o'clock on Saturday mornings. Vernon Smeltzer will be in charge of the novice classes. Information concerning the change in schedule and the new swimming classes may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A.

Tygers Rated as Underdogs In New Philadelphia Tussle

ANOTHER busy evening confronts Mr. Russ Murphy's Tygers Friday when they travel to New Philadelphia to meet the current high school basketball sensation in the state.

The Ohio spotlight will be focused on the tussle in the Tuscarawas hills, and, according to pre-game predictions, Mansfield will limp back home with another defeat on its record.

The Tygers may take it on the chin, too. In New Philadelphia, they engage a team with a lineup which is little changed from last spring when they reached the finals in the state tournament.

New Philadelphia lost only two members of the 1937-38 team, but forward Leonard Simonetti was the only regular. He has been replaced by Jack Castignola, who is the fastest man on the squad.

The other forward post is held down by Earl Fisher, 6-foot-1 All-Ohio selection of last season. The center is Chuck Swihart, an inch taller than Fisher. Lloyd Reese, another six-footer, and Glen Barker, a sophomore, are the guards.

The Quakers have won 10 straight games. They opened their season with a 41 to 20 victory over Zanesville, and followed with successive triumphs over Dennison, 27-25; Akron Hower, 46-13; Kenton, 49-10; Collinwood, 30-28; Dover, 24-22; Massillon, 24-18; Akron South, 34-16; Uhrichsville, 28-14, and East Liverpool, 38-32.

Paul Hornemann, Heidelberg graduate, is coaching the Quakers. He succeeds Johnny Brickels, now at Huntington, W. Va.

The Tygers, who have won four straight games, are working daily in preparation for the tussle, and Murphy expects the club to be in tip-top shape.

Kiddie Kegler

Title of "kute kiddie kegler" could well go to John Zager of Chicago, who certainly is getting a taste of the popular winter sport early in life. Try to take the ball away from Johnny and you'll have a big "bawl" on your hands.

Barrow Heads Yankee Club

Named When Col. Ruppert's Brother Declines.

NEW YORK—Edward G. Barrow, 71 years old and a powerful character in every way, is the new president and absolute dictator of the world champion New York Yankees

As a fitting reward for nearly 20 years of service with the club as its secretary and business manager, Barrow was unanimously named to fill the vacancy created by the death last Friday of Col. Jacob Ruppert, whose wealth combined with Barrow's baseball wisdom to create the Yankee empire.

Though he left no explicit instructions in the matter, the colonel doubtless would be happy to know the men he placed in charge of the Yankees at his death had passed on complete power to his old leutenant. The colonel's brother, George Ruppert, declined the presidential post at the meeting of the estate's directors and assured the election of Barrow.

An active figure in baseball for more than 40 years and acknowledged to possess one of the shrewdest brains in the business, Barrow is the proper man to carry on the Yankee tradition of victory. Only in the most important matters, like for instance the sale of a Yankee property, will he consult with his three fellow trustees—George Ruppert, Frederick Grant and H. Garrison Silleck, jr.

"There won't be any real change," he said last night "I always made the decisions, and it was only very seldom that Colonel Ruppert questioned my judgment. I think we'll rock along about as usual. I wouldn't be surprised if we won another championship this year."

George Weiss, by Colonel Ruppert's expressed request, will continue as directing force of the vast Yankee farm system which he created and brought to its present perfection. He plans no immediate alterations.

Mansfield Club Joins Gun League

The Mansfield Rifle and Pistol club has taken over the franchise of the Galion U. S. Grave Vault team in the Crawford county rifle and pistol league, F. W. Corwin, an officer of the Mansfield club has announced. The Galion club has withdrawn from the circuit. Other teams in the circuit are five from Galion and one each from Mansfield, Bucyrus and Crestline.

The Mansfield team will make its debut against Crestline, Jan. 26

Mansfield Tire Star Hits 663

Starts Spectacular Game With Spare; Swank of Shelby Rolls 651 Total.

THE most spectacular score rolled in the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company bowling league in several years was registered at the Meder alleys last night when "Skeets" Wolf planted a 289 game on the score sheet.

Bowling with the Tire Room team on No. 15 and 16, Wolf collected 10 straight strikes in his big game. He started with a spare and then ran up 10 consecutive strikes, getting only nine pins with the last ball.

Wolf, widely-known in Mansfield athletic circles for his participation in various sports, started his series with a 201 game and finished with a 173 for a 663 total to gain all of the individual honors last night.

Thieding contributed a 604 to enable the Tire Room five to reach the 2710 figures, which were good for a pair of victories over the Mill Room. The Tire Room rolled an even 1000 in the middle game in which Wolf shot his 289.

Neil Swank of the Shelby Cycle doubles league wrapped up a 651 to account for the second high individual total at the alleys last night. Swank put together games of 192, 264 and 195.

* * *

Howard Straub, making his first appearance of the season, came through with a snappy 618, built from scores of 205, 210 and 203.

* * *

Sophia Meder and Helen Mamber led the women's scoring in the Mixed Doubles league with respective totals of 568 and 517, the former featuring a 209 game.

HITS TAX LEAK IN AUTO SALES

Association Tells Bricker State Loses $1,000,000 Yearly on Used Car Deals.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Claiming that the state has been "fleeced" out of considerably more than one million dollars in sales tax by used car dealers during 1938, the Ohio Automobile association has asked Governor Bricker to consider corrective legislation.

Bricker said that he believed the tax commission and its sales tax collection division should be held responsible for the collection, which the association declared was evaded by "unscrupulous used car dealers."

Calling the evasion "by-passing" the association, in a statement, said:

"Dealers skipped themselves in the chain of title, making it appear that sales were casual and not subject to sales tax. In many counties this evasion will amount to 25 per cent."

The association charged that dealers are failing to make out titles on used cars traded in and when the car is sold the title is made out in the name of the new owner, as coming direct from the former owner. This practice is in violation of the state law, the association asserted.

It was further pointed out that sales tax was paid on 38,532 used car deals in Hamilton county last year, while the county clerk's records show 140,524 used car certificate of title transfers. The association asked that the dealers' and salesmans' licensing act be enforced.

Britain Reports Invention of New Incendiary Bomb

LONDON—(INS)—A new incendiary bomb, so light that a large bomber can carry two thousand, has just been invented in Britain.

Details of the new and powerful bomb were revealed by A. R. Astbury, British Home Office A. R. P. Technical Advisor, at a meeting of scientists and engineers in London.

"We call it the kilo-electron bomb." Astbury said. "It gives off jets of flame, throwing molten magnesium as far as fifty feett."

"The bombs spread out as they fall. It has been calculated that one large bomber flying in a straight line at 200 miles an hour, at a height of 5,000 feet or more releasing 20 bombs a second over an area containing 15 per cent building, might be able to start a fire over sixty or seventy yards.

"The molten magnesium will burn for ten or twenty minutes at a temperature of 1,300 degrees centigrade.

"Experimental work has been done on methods of extinguishing the bomb, but further knowledge is eminently desirable."

CAPONE FACING NEW TAX FIGHT

U. S. Suit Changes Former Gangster Owes $269,000 More.

CHICAGO —(INS)— It looked today like Al Capone was headed for another court round with the federal government after he gets out of jail.

His name appeared on the calendar of Federal Judge John P. Barnes court yesterday in an income tax deficiency case in which it was alleged he owed the government $269,000 tax for the years from 1924 to 1928. The suit was placed on a special list so that hearings may be held on five day notice. Capone is now serving out a federal prison term for income tax evasion.

The Democrat said its offer evtends to "any Oklahoma newspaper, regardless of size."

CARRIERS HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN SLOW RECOVERY

New Rail Orders for Track Materials, Rolling Equipment Brighten Picture.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market crawled uphill at a snail's pace today.

Unable to steer by any outstanding signposts in the day's political and business news, many traders kept commitments at a minimum. Dealings were so small at times the ticker barely kept moving.

The bond market also headed upward for continuation of a slow recovery. Commodities generally showed little change.

Additional rail orders for track materials and rolling equipment drew attention to one of the current bright spots in the industrial picture.

The "Iron Age" said rail orders this year would approximate 1,000,000 tons, about double the amount rolled last year.

Reflecting the generally higher level of business activity, weekly electric power figures showed a gain of 7.3 per cent over the comparable 1938 figures against a year-to-year increase of 1.4 per cent the previous week.

BACK MEASURE TO FIGHT BANG'S DISEASE IN OHIO

Milk Producers Endorse Bill, Re-elect Directors, Officers at Meeting.

The Richland County Milk Producers association today had joined other farm organizations in support of a measure seeking a $1,000,000 state appropriation to fight Bang's disease in cattle.

The association endorsed the proposal at its annual meeting yesterday at the First M. E. church, and re-elected its officers and eight directors.

Clarence Mowry, Springfield township, was re-elected president; Avery Hale, Mifflin township, secretary-treasurer, and A. L. Lockhart, Lexington, vice president.

Sponsored by the Ohio Livestock Disease Control association, the the Bang's disease bill calls for an appropriation by the state legislature to match federal funds to promote a campaign against the disease in cattle. A part of the funds would be used to pay losses for cattle ordered destroyed by inspectors.

Vote to Move Headquarters.

The county association voted to move headquarters of the North-central Ohio Milk Producers association of which it is a member from Bucyrus to Mansfield, since the seven other county units which formerly made up the Northcentral group withdrew to join another organization.

A committee of three members was named to draw up amendments to the association by-laws to conform to the change in set-up. Members of the committee are John Hink, Weller township; G. H. Culler, Monroe township, and Dale Dohner, Madison township.

Directors who were chosen for another term are Mowry, Hale, Culler, Lockhart, A. E. Pugh, Weller township; W. T. Bahr, Morrow county; L. G. Lantz, Franklin township, and V. R. Wolford, Butler township.

Principal speaker at the session was C. F. Christian, of the Dairyman's Cooperative Sales Association, Cleveland, who urged the cooperative sale of dairy products. Approximately 175 milk producers attended the meeting.

Lists Conservancy Expense for Last Year at $29,591

The Mansfield Conservancy district spent $29,591 last year and $298,115 in the 11 years of its existence, the financial report of the district board showed today.

Principal items of expense in 1938 as shown by the report filed in common pleas court are $18,000 for retirement of bonds, $6,600 for interest on bonds, and $2,644 for clerks' salaries.

In the period from 1928 to 1939, bonds retired amounted to $73,000; interest on bonds and notes, $77,748; real estate purchases, $58,728; engineers' salaries, $29,257; and clerks' salaries, $19,101.

Last year, the board collected $29,144 in assessments and $422 in rentals.

Set up in 1927, the conservancy district was designed to handle a huge flood control project in Mansfield and Madison township. The plan was abandoned after a preliminary survey was made. Bonds to finance the project will be paid off in 1942.

Members of the conservancy board are T. R. Barnes, E. R. Hartman and C. L. Hartenfels.

ROOSEVELT IN STUDY OF TAX, RAIL AID PLANS

Congress to Get Messages on New Problems in Few Days, President Says.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, approaching the halfway mark of his second term, began rounding out today his 1939 legislative program for extension of New Deal social and economic agencies and for finding new sources of revenue.

With his budget, emergency relief, defense and social security recommendations already made, he let it be known that in the next few days he would ask congress to grapple with:

1. Further taxation.
2. A national health program.
3. Railroad rehabilitation.
4. Philippine trade.

Little legislation has reached the senate and house floors, but committees rapidly are getting it into shape. Two committees were studying the president's $552,000,000 armament program, and a senate subcommittee was holding hearings on his request for relief funds, from which the house trimmed $150,000,000.

Hopkins Approval Due.

In addition, it appeared that by Friday—second anniversary of his second inauguration — Mr. Roosevelt would have senate approval of the last of his recent major appointments.

The nomination of Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce is expected to come up for a senate vote tomorrow. Administration forces were confident it would be approved despite criticism by some senators of his work as head of the WPA.

The senate approved without debate yesterday the nomination of Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard to be a supreme court justice. Frank Murphy was confirmed as attorney general, 78 to 7, after Republican denunciation of his handling of sitdown strikes while governor of Michigan.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday he would send a message to congress again urging a law providing for reciprocal taxation of federal and state salaries and the income from future federal and state bonds now in the tax-exempt class.

He proposed this last April, but congress did nothing about it. It has been estimated upwards of $100,000,000 in new revenues would accrue from such levies. Some believe a constitutional amendment would be required, but the president feels the statute method should be given a trial.

Mr. Roosevelt also made it plain that he looked with disfavor on a processing tax to help finance the farm benefit program.

ONCE WEALTHY, HOMELESS NOW

Wall Streeter Earning $100,000 a Year Gets 'Flop' In Station.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — George Liftchild, once a senior partner in a Wall Street brokerage firm, now 83, homeless and partially blind, sat with his son Frank, 55, in the Bergen street police station today waiting for someone to find them a home.

Until yesterday they had lived in a 10-room, three-story brownhouse, a decaying family heritage that had been furnished magnificently 60 years ago when the elder Liftchild was earning $100,000 a year, but which lately had served them only as a shelter from the winter weather.

They were evicted from it by the Home Owners Loan corporation in a foreclosure for an unpaid $11,676 loan.

Honest But Landed in Jail Regardless

PHOENIX, Ariz. —(AP)— Policeman James Russell stopped a young man who was looking into a parked automobile and arrested him although the latter had not stolen anything, hobestly answered all questions.

"What are you doing?" was Russell's query.

"Prowling," was the quick reply.

"Well, have you taken anything?"

"No I haven't — Cant find anything."

CROWN LOOMS FOR DON JUAN

Ex-King's Son Might Be Given Throne in Event of Franco Victory in Spain.

yet assured. The insurgents must first win a decisive victory in Spain. Then, restoration of the monarchy will still be subject to international negotiations and internal Spanish politics.

Italy is believed to be lukewarm toward a restoration, preferring to see an outright Fascist dictatorship in Spain, but Mussolini himself governs under a king, and England is counted upon by the monarchists to bring Italy around to the proposal.

Don Juan became heir presumptive in 1933 when two elder brothers, the Count of Covadonga, who later died, and Jaime, suffering from impediments in speech and hearing, abandoned claim to the rule.

He is a healthy, vigorous youth, born June 20, 1913, who has shown no traces of the tragic maladies which have tracked his family.

The modern Don Juan is a happily married man—his wife, Marie Mercedes, Princess of Bourbon-Sicilles, whom he married at Rome in 1935. They have one daughter, the Infanta Maria del Pilar, born at Cannes in 1936.

QUIZ OFFICERS OF DRUG FIRM

Federal Agents at Work In Cleveland Receivership Dispute.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Officers and directors of the Mutual Drug company were questioned secretly by officers of the Federal Securities and Exchange commission today following a fight for control of the company and a stockholder's suit for receivership.

Dan T. Moore, regional SEC director, said that a report would be forwarded to Washington after completion of the questioning. He declined to discuss the nature of the interrogation.

Moore explained that questioning of the concern's officers and directors did not indicate necessarily that any action would be taken against them by the SEC.

When it was discovered the man carried a butcher knife in a suitcase as well, police seized him for questioning in connection with the Cleveland, O., torso murders, which have baffled Cleveland authorities for years. Gerhart Kibler; one daughter, Mrs. Blackford, with whom he made his home; four brothers, Franklin Kibler, of Columbus; William and Emanuel of Whetstone township, and Samuel Kibler of Jefferson township, and two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Smith of Crestline, and Mrs. Amanda Berry of Bucyrus.

BATES FACING 'LAXITY' QUIZ

a copy of the annual report.

Told that the mayor had the report and planned to question the chief concerning activities of the police department, Nist stated that he "certainly" would be at the hearing.

Nist pointed out that it was a "little irregular" that he should not receive a copy of the annual report. It was learned however that the report had been filed only with Hunter.

The mayor said he had delayed questioning Bates because he had been unable to locate the 1937 report in city council's files. The report was filed with council early last year.

Bates, asked to comment on the mayor's statement, said he had "nothing to say" until he heard about it from his superiors.

Bates, who has been chief of the Mansfield department since Jan. 1, 1937, was advanced from the rank of captain after former Chief Merle D. Unkle, appointed by former Mayor Earl A. McFarland, resigned. In the summer of 1937 the chief attended the FBI school in Washington, financed by public subscription, and last summer returned for a short term at the retraining school.

These are the figures that Bates will be asked to explain:

	1938	1937
Arrests	1,059	1,397
Traffic violations (parking tickets)	2,905	4,325
Collections from traffic violations	$3,155	$4,458
Value of property stolen	$18,120	$17,968
Value of property recovered	$8,558	$5,434
Net loss	$9,561	$12,534
Salaries paid	$52,216	$47,862

Meanwhile, the fighting in southwestern Spain appeared to be stalemated.

LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL

SMOKERS FIND THAT CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS ARE SOOTHING TO THE NERVES

101 STORIES UP on the world's tallest building, Sidney Evert swings in the wind with only a frail scaffold between him and—well, it's 1100 feet to the street. His work is to repair windows in the tower of the Empire State Building. Nerve straining, you bet, but as Sid Evert says: "A fellow with jumpy nerves wouldn't last long on my job. So I ease the tension on my nerves whenever I can. I let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels are soothing to the nerves." Smokers in a wide variety of nerve-nagging occupations, nerve-straining sports turn to Camels for the same reason. They find it pays to ease nerve tension often. So they let up—light up a Camel!

TRAPPED ON A BLAZING WRECK, Captain Hans Milton displayed courage and nerve-power that won him head-lines from coast to coast. He says: "On the schooner Pioneer, afire 400 miles out of Halifax, we had a little food and water and some Camels. Those Camels were a great comfort through the nerve strain of worry and danger. It's a rule with me, whenever I feel my nerves getting tense, keyed-up, to let up—light up a Camel."

"RUNNING A HOME is a full-time job," says Mrs. Frank E. Smith, housewife and hostess, "and every minute of it can be nerve straining. Cleaning up, planning meals, social affairs would run me pretty ragged (and add years to my looks) if I didn't make sure to protect my nerves. My way of avoiding jumpy nerves is this: The minute I feel tense and 'edgy,' I pause—I let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels really soothing to the nerves."

BACK MEASURE TO FIGHT BANG'S DISEASE IN OHIO

Milk Producers Endorse Bill, Re-elect Directors, Officers at Meeting.

The Richland County Milk Producers association today had joined other farm organizations in support of a measure seeking a $1,000,000 state appropriation to fight Bang's disease in cattle.

The association endorsed the proposal at its annual meeting yesterday at the First M. E. church, and re-elected its officers and eight directors.

Clarence Mowry, Springfield township, was re-elected president; Avery Hale, Mifflin township, secretary-treasurer, and A. L. Lockhart, Lexington, vice president.

Sponsored by the Ohio Livestock Disease Control association, the Bang's disease bill calls for an appropriation by the state legislature to match federal funds to promote a campaign against the disease in cattle. A part of the funds would be used to pay losses for cattle ordered destroyed by inspectors.

Vote to Move Headquarters.

The county association voted to move headquarters of the North-central Ohio Milk Producers association of which it is a member from Bucyrus to Mansfield, since the seven other county units which formerly made up the Northcentral group withdrew to join another organization.

A committee of three members was named to draw up amendments to the association by-laws to conform to the change in set-up. Members of the committee are John Hink, Weller township; G. H. Culler, Monroe township, and Dale Dohner, Madison township.

Directors who were chosen for another term are Mowry, Hale, Culler, Lockhart, A. E. Pugh, Weller township; W. T. Bahr, Morrow county; L. G. Lantz, Franklin township, and V. R. Wolford, Butler township.

Principal speaker at the session was C. F. Christian, of the Dairyman's Cooperative Sales Association, Cleveland, who urged the cooperative sale of dairy products. Approximately 175 milk producers attended the meeting.

Lists Conservancy Expense for Last Year at $29,591

The Mansfield Conservancy district spent $29,591 last year and $298,115 in the 11 years of its existence, the financial report of the district board showed today.

Principal items of expense in 1938 as shown by the report filed in common pleas court are $18,000 for retirement of bonds, $6,600 for interest on bonds, and $2,644 for clerks' salaries.

In the period from 1928 to 1939, bonds retired amounted to $73,000; interest on bonds and notes, $77,748; real estate purchases, $58,728; engineers' salaries, $29,257; and clerks' salaries, $19,101.

Last year, the board collected $29,144 in assessments and $422 in rentals.

Set up in 1927, the conservancy district was designed to handle a huge flood control project in Mansfield and Madison township. The plan was abandoned after a preliminary survey was made. Bonds to finance the project will be paid off in 1942.

Members of the conservancy board are T. R. Barnes, E. R. Hartman and C. L. Hartenfels.

ROOSEVELT IN STUDY OF TAX, RAIL AID PLANS

Congress to Get Messages on New Problems in Few Days, President Says.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, approaching the halfway mark of his second term, began rounding out today his 1939 legislative program for extension of New Deal social and economic agencies and for finding new sources of revenue.

With his budget, emergency relief, defense and social security recommendations already made, he let it be known that in the next few days he would ask congress to grapple with:

1. Further taxation.
2. A national health program.
3. Railroad rehabilitation.
4. Philippine trade

Little legislation has reached the senate and house floors, but committees rapidly are getting it into shape. Two committees were studying the president's $552,000,000 armament program, and a senate subcommittee was holding hearings on his request for relief funds, from which the house trimmed $150,000,000.

Hopkins Approval Due.

In addition, it appeared that by Friday—second anniversary of his second inauguration — Mr. Roosevelt would have senate approval of the last of his recent major appointments

The nomination of Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce is expected to come up for a senate vote tomorrow. Administration forces were confident it would be approved despite criticism by some senators of his work as head of the WPA.

The senate approved without debate yesterday the nomination of Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard to be a supreme court justice. Frank Murphy was confirmed as attorney general, 78 to 7, after Republican denunciation of his handling of sitdown strikes while governor of Michigan.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday he would send a message to congress again urging a law providing for reciprocal taxation of federal and state salaries and the income from future federal and state bonds now in the tax-exempt class

He proposed this last April, but congress did nothing about it It has been estimated upwards of $100,000,000 in new revenues would accrue from such levies Some believe a constitutional amendment would be required, but the president feels the statute method should be given a trial.

Mr. Roosevelt also made it plain that he looked with disfavor on a processing tax to help finance the farm benefit program.

ONCE WEALTHY, HOMELESS NOW

Wall Streeter Earning $100,000 a Year Gets 'Flop' In Station.

NEW YORK — (UP) — George Liftchild, once a senior partner in a Wall Street brokerage firm, now 83, homeless and partially blind, sat with his son Frank, 55, in the Bergen street police station today waiting for a clone to find them a home.

Until yesterday they had lived in a 10-room, three-story brownhouse, a decaying family heritage that had been furnished magnificently 60 years ago when the elder Liftchild was earning $100,000 a year, but which lately had served them only as a shelter from the winter weather

They were evicted from it by the Home Owners Loan corporation in a foreclosure for an unpaid $11,676 loan.

Honest But Landed in Jail Regardless

PHOENIX, Ariz. —(AP)— Policeman James Russell stopped a young man who was looking into a parked automobile and arrested him although the latter had not stolen anything. hohestly answered all questions.

"What are you doing?" was Russell's query.

"Prowling," was the quick reply.

"Well, have you taken anything?"

"No I haven't — Cant find anything."

CROWN LOOMS FOR DON JUAN

yet assured. The insurgents must first win a decisive victory in Spain. Then, restoration of the monarchy will still be subject to international negotiations and internal Spanish politics.

Italy is believed to be lukewarm toward a restoration, preferring to see an outright Fascist dictatorship in Spain, but Mussolini himself governs under a king, and England is counted upon by the monarchists to bring Italy around to the proposal.

Don Juan became heir presumptive in 1933 when two elder brothers, the Count of Covadonga, who later died, and Jaime, suffering from impediments in speech and hearing, abandoned claim to the rule.

He is a healthy, vigorous youth, born June 20, 1913, who has shown no traces of the tragic maladies which have tracked his family.

The modern Don Juan is a happily married man—his wife, Marie Mercedes, Princess of Bourbon-Siciles, whom he married at Rome in 1935. They have one daughter, the Infanta Maria del Pi'ar, born at Cannes in 1936.

Told that the mayor had the report and planned to question the chief concerning activities of the police department, Nist stated that he "certainly" would be at the hearing.

Nist pointed out that it was a "little irregular" that he should not receive a copy of the annual report. It was learned however tha' the report had been filed only with Hunter.

The mayor said he had delayed questioning Bates because he had been unable to locate the 1937 report in city council's files. The report was filed with council early last year.

Bates, asked to comment on the mayor's statement, said he had "nothing to say" until he heard about it from his superiors.

Bates, who has been chief of the Mansfield department since Jan. 1, 1937, was advanced from the rank of captain after former Chief Merle D. Unkle, appointed by former Mayor Earl A. LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL

SMOKERS FIND THAT CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS ARE SOOTHING TO THE NERVES

101 STORIES UP on the world's tallest building, Sidney Evert swings in the wind with only a frail scaffold between him and—well, it's 1100 feet to the street. His work is to repair windows in the tower of the Empire State Building. Nerve straining, you bet, but as Sid Evert says: "A fellow with jumpy nerves wouldn't last long on my job. So I ease the tension on my nerves whenever I can. I let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels are soothing to the nerves." Smokers in a wide variety of nerve-nagging occupations, nerve-straining sports turn to Camels for the same reason. They find it pays to ease nerve tension often. So they let up—light up a Camel!

TRAPPED ON A BLAZING WRECK, Captain Hans Mjlton displayed courage and nerve-power that won him head-lines from coast to coast. He says: "On the schooner Pioneer, afire 400 miles out of Halifax, we had a little food and water and some Camels. Those Camels were a great comfort through the nerve strain of worry and danger. It's a rule with me, whenever I feel my nerves getting tense, keyed-up, to let up—light up a Camel."

"RUNNING A HOME is a full-time job," says Mrs. Frank E. Smith, housewife and hostess, "and every minute of it can be nerve straining. Cleaning up, planning meals, social affairs would run me pretty ragged (and add years to my looks) if I didn't make sure to protect my nerves. My way of avoiding jumpy nerves is this: The minute I feel tense and 'edgy,' I pause—I let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels really soothing to the nerves."

GERMAN-TURKEY PACT ANOTHER HITLER VICTORY

Credit Agreement Viewed by Writer as New Link in Nazi Economic Drive.

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

NEW YORK — Signing of the German-Turkish credit agreement in Berlin, granting Turkey a loan of $80,000,000, represents another important victory for Nazi Leader Hitler in his amazing drive for economic and political control of Eastern Europe and the Balkans.

It means that he has forged another link in the chain with which he is trying to bind a resisting Turkey. And it means a further challenge to Britain's influence in this area which she must control to safeguard her near eastern interests and the Suez.

Actually the credit was negotiated last October at the time of the Czechoslovak crisis, when Herr Hitler sent his economic squad dashing through the Balkans on a trade roundup. His super-salesman and minister of economics, Walter Funk, drove the deal at Ankara.

Offered Higher Loan.

I happened to arrive in the Turkish capital a few days later and made a discovery which spoke volumes on the relations between the two countries. Funk had offered Turkey a credit loan not of $60,000,000 but of double that amount — $120,000,000 — and this vast sum had been turned down although the Ankara government was far from rolling in riches.

The answer to this was that England recently had loaned Turkey some $72,000,000, and the Turks declined to play favorites by accepting a bigger grant from the Germans. Turkey was afraid of the oncoming German flood and, while she felt it would be highly impolitic to refuse a Berlin loan altogether, was looking to England for protection.

The great Turkish dictator, Kemal Ataturk, who died recently, was anti-German because of experiences he had encountered in the World war as an ally of the reich. He had decided to make England his sheet-anchor, having great faith in that country.

About a year ago the Turkish foreign minister, Dr. Aras (who has just been made ambassador to England) summed up the government's position thus:

"Britain may have lost a battle or two but she never lost a vital war. We stay with her."

USES PSYCHOLOGY IN DEALING WITH TRUANTS, FINDS IT PAYS

"Don't take a child to school; make him want to go."

That's the philosophy of John H. Eisaman, Mansfield schools attendance officer who watches over 6,450 boys and girls to see that they don't play hookey.

Appointed to his post last September to succeed the late Arthur H. Wood, Eisaman has been one of the busiest men in Mansfield ever since. He has investigated 907 cases since then, an average of 13 every school day.

He is a different type than the traditional truant officer who was generally disliked by pupils.

"Trying to drive a boy or girl to school never works. It's best to find out why they are not there and then remedy the situation or convince them that staying out of school pays no dividends," Eisaman said.

"Many cases of truancy are due to economic conditions in the home rather than a dislike of school, and if something can be done to lighten the burden of the parents, our problem is solved," he asserted.

More of his work deals with helping to provide shoes, clothing and adequate food for pupils than with merely ordering an errant boy or girl back to school.

He never resorts to force unless there is no other answer, and only five pupils have been taken into juvenile court so far this year because they refused to attend school.

Eisaman's report shows that of the 907 cases he has investigated only 107 were truants. He has helped to provides shoes for 53 pupils and clothing for 66 through welfare agencies.

Illness is the most common excuse for not attending classes, and the officer said the large majority of cases of illness he has investigated have turned out to be genuine.

Thirteen of the "missing" pupils had entered CCC camps, and five of the absent high school pupils were married and left school, giving them a permanent excuse, Eisaman said.

Working certificates were issued to 17 pupils to permit them to leave school, and 13 others were given part-time certificates.

'Chair-Warmers' At Birthday Ball To See Floor Show

A floor show, arranged especially for the chair-warmers who attend the president's ball Saturday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel—the people who want to have a part in the humanitarian project but who don't dance—is being rehearsed this week with John Correll as master of ceremonies.

There will be five acts of singing and dancing and novelty entertainment; three of them home talent and two professional talent from the Greystone night club.

Jean Schill, Mansfield high school girl, will do a novelty tap dance, and Donna Miller, 10, of Attica, who won the $25 prize at the Community Sing in Mansfield in December, will give her song and dance. She dances with her head on the floor and her tapping toes against a platform above her.

The third act, which is well known to Mansfielders, is Ralph Smith, Galion ventriloquist, who has appeared here a number of times. Smith works with two dummies.

Bob Richard's Westinghouse orchestra will play for the dancing.

Supplementing the fund raised by means of the ball, will be a Mile-of-Dimes stunt next week in which those who cannot buy a ticket to the dance and floor show, may still contribute. Small "mite boxes" will be placed in business places next week to receive these contributions

Like the money raised on the dance, the dimes will be divided and 50 per cent will go to the national infantile paralysis Foundation, and 50 per cent will be kept in Mansfield to aid victims of the disease here.

QUIZ CONFESSED SEX CRIMINAL

N. Y. Police Seek to Link Him With Slaying of Martin Girl at Kingston, Pa.

(By International News Service)

SUFFERN, N. Y.—Police today resumed their grilling of Frank Mozda, 34, a self-confessed sex criminal who has admitted killing a girl near Kingston, Pa., at about the time Margaret Martin met her death at the hands of a sex maniac.

A Pennsylvania state trooper and a Luzerne county detective were expected to arrive at Suffern some time today to question Mozda concerning the Martin case. Yesterday he underwent a severe grilling at the hands of two New Jersey state troopers investigating sex attacks in that state.

Mozda was arrested Sunday when he attempted to assault a married woman in the presence of another woman and a child. He then confessed more than a dozen attacks of women near Suffern and Kingston, N. Y., and near Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Suffern police said Mozda continued denying he knew the Martin girl but admitting attacking and killing another girl at Simpson, Pa., which is about 22 miles from Kingston, at about the same time the Martin girl was slain. Mozda was quoted by Suffern police as admitting he slashed the girl, stuffed her body into a burlap bag and threw it into a stream. The Martin girl was killed in almost the same manner.

Vice President Garner's silence is more convincing than some speeches.

"All men are created equal"—except those who expect workers to support them in idleness.

Only five present members of congress were born in log cabins—and presently the hospital-born delegation may be expected to dominate.

Better Conditions Locally Reflected.

PRODUCTION increases at Westinghouse, with consequent re-employment, is not only gratifying from a local standpoint, but also points to improved conditions throughout the country.

Products of this Mansfield industry scatter into every part of the United States to find consumer markets and any diminution of buying power, wherever it may occur, is quickly reflected in decreased requirements for production and lessened opportunity for industrial employment.

Instances such as this tend to show community dependence on national prosperity and give an idea of how definitely individual and community welfare are affected by what seem to be faraway happenings.

Dr. Anspach Makes Fine Record.

WHEN Dr. Charles L. Anspach leaves the presidency of Ashland college July 1, to become president of Central State Teachers college at Mt. Pleasant, Mich., he will leave behind a four-year record of effective administration of Mansfield's nearest neighbor among institutions of higher education.

During this four-year period Ashland college has gone through an extensive reorganization program which has not only resulted in re-admission to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, but has attracted attention of many leading educators.

Under a plan of individualized education, Dr. Anspach has combined some of the Antioch college vocational system, the Chicago university individualized study plan and other progressive features.

As a part of the vocational program, part-time jobs are provided on the campus or in Ashland business and industry for students required to finance their education. More than one hundred jobs were made available this year by cooperating Ashlanders.

While inaugurating this program in Ashland college Dr. Anspach received a number of tempting offers from other schools but has remained on the job until he feels that the plan is firmly established and will continue under his successor.

The convenience of Ashland college for attendance by Mansfield students makes it especially gratifying to learn of the increased opportunities for scholastic and vocational education being offered by this institution.

Franklin Wrote a Book.

WHEN President Roosevelt recently remarked that he had a book of the sayings of Benjamin Franklin and that some of these were very much up to date, he might also have done well by commending the book to careful reading by his New Deal associates, members of Congress and the American people in general.

It was Ben Franklin, for instance, who said: "Away with your expensive follies and you will not have so much cause to complain of hard times.

"He that goes borrowing, goes sorrowing.

"A man, if he knows not how to save as he gets, may keep his nose on the grindstone.

"Always taking out of the meal-tub, and never putting in, soon comes to the bottom.

"Our Constitution is in actual operation; everything appears to promise that it will last; but in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes.

"It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth part of their time (income) to be employed in its service."

Many things have changed since the days of Benjamin Franklin, but the basic principles on which his philosophy was founded have not changed—present governmental practices to the contrary notwithstanding.

Too Many Archives.

ANY housewife with an attic or storeroom can sympathize with Uncle Sam. It is so easy to accumulate things and so hard to weed out and discard!

The annual report of the national keeper of the archives reveals that there are now 2,699,561 cubic feet of paper records in or near Washington. The pile grows at the rate of 48,509 cubic feet a year. There are also 17,737,879 linear feet of motion picture film which require cubic space for storage.

The new National Archives building is adequate for the present, but will be filled to overflowing one of these days, if the output of documents and records continues at the present rate. It is more likely to accelerate.

The National Archives council overhauls the mass and recommends that certain material be saved and the remainder destroyed.

Song-Writing People.

ONE popular band leader says two out of every five Americans write two songs a year and pester the life out of prominent musicians to get them publicly played or sung. The number is a guess, of course, based on his own experience, not on census statistics, and exaggerated for effect. Even so, his observation reveals an urge for self-expression through music not usually suspected.

Song-writing is not confined to any group or class. The band leader says he has been solicited to play their songs by policemen, bell boys, taxi drivers, newspaper men, theater managers, millionaires, an opera star, a professor of philosophy and the operator of an escort service. Doubtless other trades, professions and businesses have their would-be songsters, too.

Perhaps it isn't all an urge for self-expression. Popular songs that catch the public ear are supposed to make their composers very wealthy.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Publication of the confidential naval report on air and submarine bases turned a bright light on a major item of national defense often overlooked. It is:

When this country has to defend the hemisphere from foreign aggression it will do so by attacking the enemy as close to his home shores as it can get. It will not wait until the enemy planes are roaring over New York City or his naval guns are shooting down the Golden Gate.

In time of war a defensive force must be converted into an offensive force unless the country is willing to fight the war in its own dooryard. That, at least, is the navy viewpoint expresed on more than one occasion and clearly implied now in the report on proposed naval bases which was made public because of a slip by a house clerk.

That is why the so-called "defense" weapons look so "offensive." If the war is to be fought a few miles off the Atlantic, Pacific or Gulf Coasts, long range bombers are not necessary, nor are supply ships. But every defensive plan this correspondent ever heard of calls for meeting the enemy 2,000 miles or more from American shores, whether the battle be in the air or on the sea. And that calls for location of supply bases as far out to the front as possible.

Opportunities Limited.

THERE is little opportunity for out-reaching bases in the Atlantic. We have to be contented with Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and a naval base in Cuba to backstop the defense both of the continent and the Panama Canal.

But in the Pacific it is different. Hawaii is already a formidable base and now the navy is hankering for funds—and authority—to extend its string of supply bases 2,000 miles or more westward, including Midway Island, and more important, Guam.

In Guam, the report discloses, the navy believes it has found a key to national defense which will be effective both in the Pacific and the Atlantic. It is 1,500 miles from Japan.

"With adequate air and submarine protection securely based on Guam," says the report. "The island could be made secure against anything short of a major effort on the part of any probable enemy. . . . Supported by a garrison of only moderate strength in comparison to the important military issues involved, with appropriate anti-aircraft and coast-defense equipment, it seems that such a defense force should be able to hold out to the limit of time that its supplies lasted, a period long enough in ordinary probability for adequate support to arrive."

Stars indicate major bases proposed by navy experts.

Three Strong Points.

THE island, comparatively small as islands go, is geographically designed and situated for a fleet base, says the report, and the naval board which compiled it add:

"A strong advanced fleet base at Guam, developed to the practical limits which the natural resources invite, would assure—

"1 Practical immunity of the Philippines against hostile attack in force.

"2 The most favorable conditions that could be brought about for the protection of naval operations in the Western Pacific arising from whatever necessity. It would reduce to its simplest possible terms the defense of Hawaii and the continental coast of the United States.

"3 The ability of the fleet to operate with greater freedom in meeting emergency conditions that might arise in the Atlantic." (The idea here would seem to be that even if the fleet should be busy with an enemy in the Atlantic, Japan could not attack the Pacific Coast as long as Guam could send out planes and submarines to cut off the Japanese supplies.)

Whether the Navy will get its way with Guam is anybody's guess. By the 1922 naval treaty we agreed not to fortify Guam, but Japan ended that treaty by formally denouncing it three years ago. Even if Congress refuses to take such a step, it gives the government an ace to play in Pacific negotiations.

"Monkey" Wrench?

There is no monkey in monkey wrench. How did the "monkey" get in?

The answer is that "monkey" is a misnomer for Moncke, pronounced Mun-ke.

Moncke, first name Charles, is said to have been an ingenious London blacksmith who first contrived a wrench or spanner with a movable jaw, adjustable by means of a screw.

For some time, this tool was called, and properly, a Moncke, which due to sloppy pronunciation and spelling was soon corrupted to monkey, wrench.

Budget Warning Upsets Congress

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt scared congress badly when he reminded the law makers, in his recent message to them, that they will have to accept the responsibility for any cuts they make in the national spending allowance which he recommends.

The legislators are somewhere between the devil and the deep blue sea.

A majority of them undoubtedly are of the opinion that our voters predominantly believe Uncle Sam already is plenty far enough into the red, and their judgment is to pare down all they can. If they do not do it they are afraid their constituents will turn them down on a future election day. Yet if they do pare down and times tighten up, they know they'll be blamed for that, too.

Our solons are rather more apprehensive, in theory, of danger No. 1 than of danger No. 2.

In practice, however, No. 2 is more immediately threatening than No. 1.

If they indorse increased expenditures and deficits now, they foresee inflation and disaster in the long run—but maybe not for several election days to come. Meantime safety, for those several election days to come.

On the other hand, suppose congress begins to retrench forthwith. The pinch will be felt almost instantaneously —and on NEXT election day the chaps who advocated it will lose out, whatever later generations may say as to the soundness of today's legislators' policy. Indeed, today's crowd will not be remembered at all; they are especially interested in hanging onto their present jobs.

Our members of the 76th congress are aware of all this, but President Roosevelt emphatically rubbed the idea in when he called for copious billions without delay.

Balancing the Budget.

An occasional lawmaker advocates a semi-balancing of huge expenditures by increased taxation.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette conspicuously is of this very small group.

He does not dispute the necessity for vast emergency revenues to meet emergency needs, but he does not like running into debt. "Let's have higher taxes," he urges, "to pay as we go along."

But nothing is more unpopular than higher taxes.

It is a wonder to me that a politician like "Young Bob" LaFollette has the nerve to plug for such a program. I question that he can get away with it. In fact, it's evident that the LaFollette regime in Wisconsin has been weakened by such an advocacy. "Young Phil" LaFollette already has been beaten for reelection as governor of the Badger state for promoting it. "Young Senator Bob" has not been beaten, because he is not up for reelection until 1940. But how about 1940?

More Wealth to Tax?

President Roosevelt's proposition is that we do not need higher taxation if we have more wealth to tax.

In other words, assume that an individual has $1,000 worth of taxable property at a 10 per cent rate; he is stuck for $100.

But assume that his country's prosperity is such as to give him $2,000 worth of taxable property, still at 10 per cent. The government gets $200 at no increased burden on the tax-payee.

The fractions are immaterial, so long as they are proportionate.

The administration takes it for granted that its reckoning will be roughly correct.

But will it prove to be so?

That is what congress (99.5 per cent of Republican members and about 50 per cent of Democrats) is worrying about.

The Republicans are hopeful that the President is not correct and the Democrats (approximately half of them) suspect that he is wrong.

It makes a much mixed-up congressional session.

It isn't alone inter-parliamentary; it is inter-inter-intra-parliamentary.

Bequest of Anna Scattergood Serves as Lasting Memorial

By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

A LOCAL example of how a bequest of money or property, for humanitarian purposes, not only serves as a lasting memorial but also may do beneficial work through many years, is seen in the use being made of what has become known as the Scattergood Fund.

This fund, approximating $68,000, is a bequest of the late Anna Scattergood, whose death occurred in 1922, and was held in trust by her brother Hobart Scattergood, until his death in 1936, when it became available to the Mansfield Humane Society, through which it is administered by three trustees—John H. Finefrock, William H. Gifford and D. Osborne Meese.

Only the income from the invested principal of the bequest is used in carrying out the intent of Miss Scattergood in establishing this fund, through which she sought to assure continuance of benevolent activities in which she had been greatly interested during her lifetime.

Looking to continued need of care by indigent aged, and persons incurably sick, Miss Scattergood made provision in her will that benefactions from the fund be confined to these two classes, and limited to those who had been citizens of Mansfield for ten years or longer.

Timely interest in the Scattergood Fund results from the filing this week with the Humane Society, of the report of disbursements of 1938, by Mr. Meese, treasurer of the trustees charged with the responsibility of managing and distributing the income from the fund and checking on the validity of cases in which application is made for participation, in accordance with the terms of Miss Scattergood's will.

This report, which covers the second complete year of administration of the fund, shows expenditures of $2,415 for relief cases, as compared with $2,337 in 1937 and $270 during the short time in 1936 in which income from the bequest was available.

From this it is seen that a total of more than five thousand dollars has been expended from this fund in humanitarian work in Mansfield in slightly more than two years without using any part of the principal, giving an idea of the immense amount of such good work that could be done in this community if other citizens who have wealth beyond their needs were imbued by the same spirit of service to others which impelled Miss Scattergood to establish this fund, through which her memory will be carried long into the future.

Into the minds of those associated with the administration of this fund, as well as others who look to the future of Mansfield, there comes a vision of the possibility, in later years, of establishing for Mansfield a suitable home for indigent aged and incurably sick persons, where they can be comfortably housed, provided with nursing care when needed, and given opportunity to spend their final years in pleasant surroundings, freed from the financial worries and loneliness they would otherwise be required to endure.

Many other cities have already been provided, through eleemosynary bequests of philanthropic citizens, with such homes for unfortunate aged citizens and the incurably sick, and it is at least a growing hope that the Scattergood Fund may serve as the nucleus for a similar worthy accomplishment in Mansfield in the not too distant future.

Timely Editorial

Liberty By Alertness.

So long as newspapers of America make such editorial fights as they did against the supreme court packing bill, the re-organization bill and the so-called May war bill which would have given the president dictatorial powers, the people may feel assured that the freedom of the press still exists. That point made by Frank Gannett, newspaper publisher, in a radio debate with Harold Ickes, secretary of interior, was the main one of the discussion.

The press has been alert in detecting recent attempts to curtail freedom. Its own liberty and that of all the people depend upon a continuance of such watchfulness.—Toledo Blade.

Listen, World!

"A Place Apart."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE old nations—Spain and France, Mexico and Peru—knew something which we Americans, as a whole, have never learned . . . which has no place whatever in our modern scheme of things . . . namely, the beauty and necessity of privacy in one's personal life. Some place, however small—some period, however brief—in which one may "walk with one's soul," apart from the shrillness and grossness of the outer world.

Most of us live, by preference, in 500-watt pandemonium. The very thought of solitude appalls us. "Ring up Mabel . . . 'Phone for Fred! . . . Turn on the radio! Let's start something!" So we seek escape from Reality. But the older people were wiser. They did not try to run away from themselves. Rather, they built "quiet places apart."

As a youngster, living in the hurly-burly of the Far West, I'd see romantic mementos of that Spanish hunger for "apartness." But never had I known the reality until I came to Hornitos, in 1915—a woman grown, and in great need.

Hornitos — as strange a fragment of Gold Rush days as one can find. Once a brawling camp, built exclusively by the Spanish at the southern end of the Mother Lode where the mighty heave of the Sierra ravels into grassless waste. Now a crumbling fragment, raddled with gopher holes. Twenty-five miles it lies from the nearest, largest town in California's central valley. Twenty-five miles of desert, cattle range, without tree or shrub or sound of the vagabond wind. Only the pale, blazing arch of the sky . . . only the blistered earth. Only the glare . . . without even horizon to show where earth fuses with air. So the trail crawled, listlessly, like a blind snake.

Until, around a slope you had not seen, you came, amazingly, upon a litter along a dry creek—the litter that is Hornitos. One straggling street. Five hundred square miles of emptiness; yet, true to Spanish blood, they'd built that street a donkey's load in breadth . . . paved it with flags . . . lined it with bars, fandango halls, gambling dens and little musky shops where strings of peppers, herbs and garlic dried in doorways built of whitewashed, 'dobe brick . . . guarded by bullet-nicked, hand-hammered iron doors . . .

A miniature Madrid. Coming upon it, in the noontime glare, it seemed a sun-seared shell. But with the cooling dusk, it came alive. Cowboys came whooping down the streets, went straddling to the bars in bow-legged glory. Gamblers, with sleek, oiled locks slantwise across their death's-head skulls . . . dissolving into shadows. Miners, clay-caked, with lamps still flickering in their caps.

A miniature Madrid—filled with the broken dreams and scuttling fear of finished men . . . where I, myself, was to know desperate, bewildered years. Yet, with those years, such glimpses of peace as I have never known before or since. For back of those brawling bars . . . beneath those grim gambling tables . . . hidden from the outbursts of greed or murder which fouled the street above, lay the "patios."

Not to be seen from above, those patios. One came to them through the upper trading rooms . . . then down a rickety stair . . . across a dark, many-alcoved cellar where the family slept through the long glare . . . and so across the sill, into a small walled space of fruit and flowers and smooth, swept earth, where the family life went on.

Those little patios—never have I seen their like. Filled with laughter and song and the heartening scent of golden oil and new-made wine . . . stout cheese . . . and home-made sausages. With Carmelita grinding corn within the green gloom of some ancient fig, her hair blue-black against the warm gold of her skin, her lips as fragrant as her scarlet rose. Or cooing babies rolling on a blanket with a friendly hen and tiny, nuzzling pig. And, all the day, the family drifting in and out . . . to sing . . . or laugh . . . or just lie still and taste the peace.

Little "places apart" . . . that went on and on despite what happened overhead. Quiet, walled gardens that fed the soul as well as the body.

How we need them today!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Let's talk about cops. New York has 18,000 of them. They get their name from copper badges which became regulation equipment back in the eighties. For awhile they were known only as "coppers," but eventually it was shortened to "cop."

The first policemen in New York were called "leatherheads," because they wore leather helmets. But even before that, when the Dutch had Manhattan, the cops carried noisemakers which they rattled before stopping anyone.

To discourage rioters the early keepers of the peace employed a very quaint custom. Their first move was to knock off the rioter's stove-pipe hat. Everybody wore stove-pipe hats in those days. When he leaned over to pick up his hat he was kicked in the pants.

Washington Irving, a practical joker as well as an author, frequently became nettled at police inefficiency and took matters into his own hands. His idea of fun was to lasso an annoyer and drag him through the street.

NEW YORK'S worst crime years weren't during prohibition, as you might suppose. They were between 1800 and 1810. A demoralized police force served as an inducement apparently for every criminal in the country to visit Manhattan, known among thieves as "the pie counter," because the pickings were so good and the chances of arrest so negligible.

The life of a cop, even though he is Irish, is never the life of Riley in New York. It is a stern, exacting career, and one which frequently proves too severe for those who attempt it. Perhaps you will begin to realize this when you know that 75 policemen in the last four years have committed suicide.

New York's present police commissioner is Lewis J. Valentine, an ex-delivery wagon boy who became a flatfoot and rose from the ranks to his present high position. He is known as an "old school" graduate who doesn't hesitate to censure officers when "the good of the department" is at stake.

One of the best publicized features of the department's operations is the morning "line-up." This takes place about 9 a. m. and all suspects rounded up during the night are forced to parade under glaring lights. Scrutinizing them are detectives and other officers, but they are in shadow and the suspects can't see them. Expert dicks remember faces 20 years after seeing them in the "line-up."

* * *

NIGHT court is another widely-known facet of Manhattan law enforcement; it used to be considered fashionable to attend the sessions and watch the magistrates dish out sentences. For years the galleries were crammed with writers, sob sisters, and tourists, but the vogue has passed and night court today is a commonplace.

The wagon they take you to jail in is known as "the rowdy hack." New York's police force is predominantly Irish, but the racial sectors are usually patrolled by officers of their own blood. Harlem is largely policed by Negroes and they have established an unusually fine record.

A Farmer's Diary

The Calendar.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY FRIEND, the miller, gave me the calendar. I took it home and hung it on the wall. It had a picture of a rural scene, and I thought it crude, as I looked at it closely, and felt sorry for the artist.

Beneath the picture, though, 12 sheets of figures marked the months and days of the new year. The holidays were marked in red. I looked upon those small squares of promise kindly. They meant opportunity, hope, adventure, accomplishment. Within those future days lie unrealized dreams that only time can carry to fruition. Here are unrevealed sunshine and shadows for many lives—joys, disappointments, losses. So I let it hang upon the kitchen wall, and went out for the night.

Next morning when the low wood stove grew temperamental and too hot, I moved across the kitchen. The sun shone through the window and bathed the calendar's rural scene in glorious colors. I stared at it, from that distance, and found that it had beauty, after all.

A country house stands beside a winding, rutted road, down which three white geese are waddling, one behind the other. Great trees shelter the opposite roadside, and stand protectingly close to the gables of the rambling house with its shuttered windows and summer kitchen. A flowing spring moves eastward, near the road. Behind, tall rugged hills guard the valley like sentinels.

My first impressions of that artist's work were wrong. I was too close, so lost the beauty and the soul that lingered there—the calm serenity and dignity of the finished view.

So, I suppose, I often grow too close to my friends, and we cease to know each other in the best perspective.

Senate Committee Approves Hopkins By 13 to 6 Vote

REPUBLICANS ALL VOTE 'NO' ON SELECTION

Bailey Predicts 'Considerable Discussion' on Appointment From Floor of Senate.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Overriding opposition from a minority group, the senate commerce committee today recommended confirmation of former WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, as secretary of commerce, succeeding Daniel C. Roper, resigned.

Committee approval of Hopkins presaged a lengthy discussion of "politics in relief" on the senate floor when the nomination is considered tomorrow.

The committee vote on Hopkins was 13 to 6, with Senator Bailey (D., N. C.), chairman, who has had a long-standing personal feud with Hopkins, not voting.

Bailey explained his failure to vote by stating that "it was a personal matter." He said he would reduce his views on the confirmation of Hopkins to writing and would place a statement on the desk of each senator at noon tomorrow.

Bailey predicted "there will be right considerable discussion" before Hopkins is confirmed, although he reiterated he would take no oral part in it.

Republicans Vote 'No.'

The vote in committee was along strict party lines.

The 13 who voted for Hopkins were all Democrats—Maloney of Connecticut, Caraway of Arkansas, Hill of Alabama, Lee of Oklahoma, Guffey of Pennsylvania, Radcliffe of Maryland, Sheppard of Texas, Clark of Missouri, Mead of New York, Overton of Louisiana, Bilbo of Mississippi, Pepper of Florida, and Donahey of Ohio.

The six adverse votes were all Republican—McNary of Oregon, Johnson of California, Vandenberg of Michigan, White of Maine, Barbour of New Jersey, and Gibson of Vermont.

Hopkins is the last of three recent important appointees by President Roosevelt to be considered by the senate. The senate has approved the appointments of Felix Frankfurter as an associate justice of the supreme court, and Frank Murphy as attorney-general.

Some members of the committee who questioned Hopkins at length on his relief policies during hearings on his appointment as secretary of commerce, have notified colleagues they will discuss the relief issue in detail before the senate votes.

Senators Bailey (D., N. C.), chairman of the committee, and Johnson (R., Cal.) said they may file minority reports to accompany the committee's favorable report to the senate.

However, administration leaders predicted Hopkins would be confirmed by the senate by a wide majority.

TAFT VOTE OPPOSES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, like former Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, will not receive the support of Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, when his name is submitted to the senate for confirmation as secretary of commerce.

Taft voted against confirmation of Murphy as attorney general yesterday, but voted affirmatively on Felix Frankfurter as a justice of the supreme court. The senate approved both.

The senator issued a statement on his vote against Murphy and announced he would also oppose confirmation of Hopkins because of the latter's "failure to prevent the use of WPA in politics."

SPORTSMEN TO PLAN PROJECTS

Committee Named By Izaak Walton Head to Map 1939 Program.

A project committee to plan activities for the year was named at a dinner meeting of the Richland chapter, Izaak Walton league, last night at Cline's restaurant in Wayne street.

The committee, comprised of Alvin Fankhauser, chairman, R. M. Lamb, William Maybee, Roy Winters, Clyde Benninghoff and Glenn Taylor, was named by Lloyd Barr, president.

Lieut. Fleet Corwin of Mansfield, a retired U. S. navy officer, was guest speaker, and told of his 30 years experience in the navy. The next meeting of the league will be held Feb. 21.

Angry Cow Pushes Car, Driver Into Creek

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—John Bond and his shiny new automobile lost a one-round decision to a cow. They met the cow at a bridge over a small stream. She blocked their path. Angry at Bond's attempts to pass, the cow lowered her head and nudged Bond and his car into the stream. No one was hurt—least of all the cow.

ECONOMIES HIT CITY, COUNTY

One Bill Would Cut Shares of Sales Tax, Other Calls for Relief Matching.

today in asserting that the proposed legislation would be a severe blow to their 1939 financial set-ups.

Kelley, pointing out that 1939 city appropriations had been set up in part on anticipated sales tax revenue, said:

"It looks like a case of self-preservation, with the state shifting the burden onto already downtrodden municipalities."

"We have no idea how we will meet the requirment for matching relief dollars with the state if that legislation is approved," Kelley continued, "It leaves the city in the same situation as last year when we were groping for funds."

"However, there's not much can be done about it. Cities are at the state's mercy in such cases."

Mayor Hunter said "neither bill will add to the pleasure of the city's situation," adding that the relief measure would be a "terrible" blow to the city.

Cities throughout the state had been hopeful that some method of handling relief would be developed that would not require cities to match state contributions. The city made no provision for direct relief in its 1939 appropriation measure.

Wolfe asserted that "any reduction in the county's share of sales tax revenue will hurt, especially since the county is now operating on an extremely narrow margin."

Commenting on the relief proposal, Wolfe said "the county has no funds for matching to obtain relief allocations, but I understand we can use beer and malt taxes (which amount to about $1,500 a month) for matching."

If that were done, it would give the county $3,000 for distribution among subdivisions. The present rate of expenditures is about $8,000 a month.

Issue Notes Against Tax.

The city of Mansfield and Madison township have already issued notes against anticipated sales tax receipts for 1939, which would further complicate the problem.

Mansfield has issued notes in the total of $8,058 and Madison township for $3,045. This was authorized by the last state legislature, to be used for relief purposes. It was expected that the present state assembly would authorize a special allocation to redeem these notes, but no such proposal has yet been made.

The sales tax measure would also do away with the previous system of earmarking the remaining 60 per cent of the sales tax receipts for operation of the school foundation system. This however, was not expected to work a hardship on schools.

In addition to the matching requirement, the relief bill also reduced the amount allowed for administration from 12 to 10 per cent, and gives the state welfare department exclusive power to determine relief needs.

and typewriters were missing from the highway department offices, and that records in that division and the welfare department were gone, Highway Director Robert S. Beightler said Monday that personnel records in 10 of 12 division offices had been destroyed two days before the new administration took office Jan. 9.

Pointing to his own office, Bricker said he understood that new typewriters had been installed shortly before his government took charge, but added "we found nothing but old ones."

As department heads continued slashing pay rolls to carry out Bricker's economy orders, the number of state employes discharged neared 1,900.

POLICE PICK UP TRIO FOR AKRON

Ex-Convicts Arrested by State Patrol; Men Found Driving Stolen Automobile.

Three Akron ex-convicts, each having a long prison record, who were apprehended at 9:15 p. m. yesterday about a mile north of Mansfield on U. S. route 42 by State Highway patrolmen, were turned over this morning to Akron authorities.

The men, who gave their names as Agropenio McGinnis, 28, Mack Guy, 34, and Clifford James, 29, were caught by Patrolmen R. I. Governor and W. H. Harrison following a broadcast over the patrol radio system out of Massillon to be on the lookout for the car.

According to Patrolman Governor, the car in which the men were riding as well as the license plates on the car were reported stolen in Akron. The car was reported headed south on route 42 at 9 p. m. yesterday by the marshal of Lodi.

McGinnis has a record as a hold-up man in Akron, and Guy and James recently served time in the state prison in Lincoln, Neb., according to Governor. Guy recently jumped bond of $4,000 in Akron, Governor said. The men are believed to have participated in several robberies recently in Akron.

After spending the night in the city jail, the men were turned over to four Akron detectives at 5 a. m. today.

'HAVING TIME OF MY LIFE,' SAYS NEW WELFARE DIRECTOR

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Charles L. Sherwood's attitude on his brief tenure as state welfare director became comparable today to the sentiment of a summer vacationist.

"I am having the time of my life," he said. "I am enjoying every minute."

That comment just about sums up the ambitious character of the man from Fremont who believes the best way for state institutions to function properly is to allow superintendents to select their own personnel.

Noted for his patience, even under the most exhausting circumstances, Sherwood is no stranger to the welfare department nor are its problems foreign to him.

He served as assistant director during 1929 and 1930. Since 1931 he has been executive director of the Ohio Mental Hygiene association. In addition, he has given considerable time to welfare committees, both state and nation.

Although his occupancy of the director's chair has been measured in terms of days instead of weeks or months, Sherwood has already supervised a general "housecleaning" of personnel, weeding out the "undesirables" and "political nuisances."

"There is no place for politics in a welfare setup," he said. "We have a big job to do and the only way we can fulfill our ambitions is to clear out the deadwood and be sure competent workers are inserted in key positions."

On various occasions he has admitted a "working knowledge" of the affairs of the previous welfare administration.

Outside of reorganizing the department, his broadest task right now is attempting to grant interviews to scores of office seekers who crowd his office each day. All visitors are treated equally. His search is constantly for ability rather than political affiliations.

Sees No Effort By County Grange To Oppose Meters

Although one northern Richland county chapter today had voiced opposition to the proposed installation of parking meters in Mansfield, A. A. Mellick, county deputy of the Grange, said that there was no organized effort by the organization to block the metered plan of parking.

This statement was made after the Jackson township grange had filed a protest with city council declaring that the installation of meters in Mansfield would "work to the detriment of the farmers of Richland county."

They point out in a resolution that if meters are installed here the "farmers will be forced to patronize other nearby cities."

The resolution was filed with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., yesterday by M. H. Myers, whom the chapter had instructed to protest against the passage of the measure which will be given a second reading at council's regular meeting Feb. 7.

First reading on the ordinance was held Jan. 3. It is scheduled to come up for passage in March.

STIR FIGHT ON TAX IMMUNITY OF U.S. SALARIES

Opposition Organizes After Roosevelt Announces He'll Give Special Message.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt and his New Deal faced another fight today on the issue of repealing future reciprocal tax immunity on federal and state bonds and salaries.

No sooner had the chief executive disclosed that tomorrow he will dispatch a special message to congress urging immediate legislation to terminate future tax-exemptions than the organized opposition began to marshal its forces.

First to speak was the conference on state defense, representing the attorneys general of 42 states, which announced through its secretary, Austin J. Tobin, it "was prepared to fight to the last" for continued exemption of state bonds from federal taxation.

Appeal Once Ignored.

In making his proposal tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will be reviving an appeal which was ignored by the last session of congress. It is the president's contention that tax laws fundamentally are intended to apply to all citizens equally, that it is unfair "to create a vast reservoir of tax exempt securities in the hands of the very persons who equitably should not be relieved of taxes on their income." In like fashion, he condemns the practice of levying both federal and state income taxes on the salaries of most workers while federal employes enjoy exemption from state taxation and vice versa.

"Tax exemptions through the ownership of government securities of many kinds—federal, state and local—have operated against the fair or effective collection of progressive surtaxes," declared the chief executive in a message last April.

Many hundreds of thousands of state, county and municipal employes will have to start paying federal income taxes if the White House proposal is heeded, while many hundreds of thousands of federal employes will face taxation for the first time.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that a more immediate reason impelled him to dispatch a special message tomorrow. Last May the supreme court ruled that a New York port authority employe had to pay full federal income tax. The president says that unless congress gives employes of such agencies relief the treasury department will be compelled to tax them retroactively for three years. It is not the administration's desire to tax retroactively.

PLEADS GUILTY

Farmer Admits Setting Fire to Barn 23 Years Ago.

TIFFIN—(AP)—The grand jury today indicted Royal Keesy, 64, Attica farmer now in jail for alleged pig stealing, on arson charges in connection with two farm fires, one of which occurred 23 years ago.

Indictments charged Keesy with setting fire to a barn on the Jacob Smith farm, Feb. 15, 1915, and to another barn on Willis Stahl's farm, March 3, 1932. Prosecutor Robert C. Carpenter said Keesy admitted both charges.

THREE YOUTHS ADMIT ROBBERY

2 Mansfielders in Trio Placed on Probation at Sandusky After Guilty Pleas.

Two Mansfield youths and a third from Columbus were placed under five-year probations at Sandusky yesterday after they pleaded guilty in Erie county common pleas court to indictments for robbery.

Robert Farrow, 20, and Kenneth Bricker, 21, of Mansfield were ordered by Judge E. H. Salvord to report to Ralph Carroll, Richland county probation officer. The other member of the trio, Kenneth Huber, 21, of Columbus, will report to a Franklin county officer.

Sentences of from 19 to 25 years for kidnaping and robbing a Sandusky man were suspended by Judge Salvord on the condition that the youth stay out of trouble and report regularly to probation officers.

The youths admitted the abduction of the Sandusky man last September and taking his automobile with which they planned to go to Castalia to rob a bank.

Atty. J. V. Will, Mansfield attorney, represented the Mansfield youths at yesterday's hearing in the Erie county court. Six Richland county officials and Mansfield residents were in Sandusky to testify at the hearing.

They were Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Sheriff E. P. Long, Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck, Dr. K. G. Parker, Miss Hazel Zellner and C. B. Gray.

SYNOPSIS

Alix Barton is only 16 when her father, a clergyman in a small Maryland town, dies suddenly and her semi-invalid mother soon follows him. Alix goes to Baltimore and by sacrifice and study fits herself for a secretarial job. The first two years she is very lonesome and worries about her brother Tod who got into trouble with the police of their home town when boys broke into a store and stole some tires. He declared he thought it all a lark and didn't know his companions were going to take anything. He is now on a tramp steamer and she hears from him from all parts of the world. At the end of two years she meets Tuck Martin, a motherly social worker for thirty years, and they are very happy in their housekeeping arrangements. Alix's best boy friend is Eddie Barrett whose family was prominent and wealthy before the depression but now is working for $25 a week. He takes Alix to a party given by Don Lawrence and his debutante daughter Nancy where she meets Kurt Deering and on the instant falls in love with him. Kurt makes a dinner date for two nights later. On the way home Eddie asks her how he "stands" with her. She tells him he is her best friend outside of Tuck, but that she doesn't love him.

CHAPTER II

Tuck was still sitting in the red leather chair beneath the lamp When Alix came in and took off the black fur coat and the little hat with the veil, Tuck closed the magazine and looked over her spectacles at her, thinking, 'Alix, who isn't strictly beautiful, is beautiful and radiant tonight"

'Did you have a good time?"

Alix pulled the footstool close to the red leather chair.

"Don't laugh, don't scoff, darling, but I fell in love with a man named Kurt Deering tonight. I looked up—I had to look up because he's so tall—and there he was And I know" Her eyes were misty. "Yes, as quickly as that. He has a bitter look as if something or someone has hurt him. Perhaps if I love him enough..."

"My dear child you mean if he loves you enough'

"I don't know how he feels about me But he made a date for the night after tomorrow night' She folded her hands "Isn't love everything, Tuck? Isn't it the center, the core of everything?"

"Yes, dear, it is," Tuck said, the familiar harshness gone from her voice "I want you to go on believing that it is But you're so young and I don't want you to be hurt." Her plump hand touched the golden head gently. "Just so you don't get hurt, child."

Alix said, "I'm not afraid He'd never hurt me. Not Kurt Deering"

Alix and Tuck prided themselves on their morning efficiency Each helped with the breakfast and clearing away of the dishes and promptly at eight-thirty Tuck was on her way to her office and Alix to the office of Taylor Brothers, Brokers

Going downtown on the crowded bus Alix thought of a problem soon, she feared to become an alarming one She had not mentioned to Tuck But a month ago a new girl, Betty Harris had been hired as a stenographer and gossip in the office had it that elderly Henry Taylor was infatuated with her Kitty Bayliss had said to Alix, 'That dizzy blond is after your job and girls like her usually get what they want"

In the dressing-room girls were taking off their snow arctics hanging up their coats and filing out to the various offices to open their desks and begin the days work.

Twice that morning Henry Taylor rang for Betty

Alix luncheod with Kitty who said 'You can't be blind to what's going on between Taylor and Betty Everybody notices it

"But there's nothing wrong with my work It doesn't have anything to do with me

You'll see She's after your job You're trying to get ahead on your brains and she's trying to get ahead on her looks Figure it out for yourself

Slowly Alix stirred cream in her coffee

'I've seen it coming but I didn't want to think about it I hate office gossip"

The afternoon dragged Twice again Mr Henry rang for Betty and the click of her small wooden heels announced her going not only to Alix but to every one in the office.

At five Alix cleared her desk and went to the dressing room Looking at herself in the plain brown sport coat and small brown felt hat with an upturned brim, she thought, "How silly I am to think that Kurt Deering will care for me when there are girls like Nancy who have everything — clothes and places in which to entertain I've got to stop thinking about him"

Kitty came in "It's none of my business, Alix, but I'd quit before he fired me or demoted me. You're on the spot"

"But I can't be that independent I'll just have to wait."

Walking to the windy bus corner, she thought of the difference, between her life and Kurt's But then had she not most of he life reached to the heights beyond her? "If you could see me now," she thought, "half frozen and worried because I don't know how long my job will last and worried about Tod who is never out of my mind, you'd wonder why you wanted to see me again

Tuck was broiling a steak when she got home At dinner Alix told her of conditions at the office

Don't worry" Tuck said "There are entirely too many Bettys in the business world and something should be done about them"

Alix was mending stockings when the phone rang and an unfamiliar voice asked, 'Alix? This is your last night's host, Don Lawrence Nancy and I are having another party Saturday night and we want you to come Eddie tells me he's working so I'll call for you"

Kurt would be there....

Alix said "Thank you

Good. I'll call for you around ten'

"How is Nancy?'

He laughed 'At the moment she is trying on and admiring herself in a new mink coat Mink coats are for daughters like Nancy—and—for beautful blonds like you, Alix."

When he rang off, she looked across the room and smiled at Tuck

"That was Don Lawrence

"A man to stay away from," Tuck remarked dryly See that you do"

* * *

The next day the situation at the office had not improved.

At lunch Kitty said, 'It'll be different when Mr Charles Taylor gets back from Florida Nobody's doing any work now'

It will be to late when he gets back," Alix said I haven't any work and I don't think Mr Taylor is going to give me any"

At a quarter to five Henry Taylor rang for her But she did not take her notebook with her. The typewriters stopped clicking, heads came up, and a half dozen pairs of curious eyes saw her walk to the door, open it, and close it again quietly.

Henry Taylor, gray-eyed behind the thick-lensed spectacles, tall and spare with a shining bald spot, sat behind a large desk and drummed it with his thin fingers When he saw Alix, he cleared his throat and looked at her furtively.

"Miss Barton...."

"I know why you sent for me," she said quite calmly. Talk fast, say little, and get it over Oh, but the days ahead in employment agencies, her security shaken, bills coming in...'I'm leaving today Under the circumstances it's the only thing I can do I won't accept a demotion because I don't deserve it and I won't be an object of pity for the other people out there'

But Miss Barton....'

She did not hear him Going to her desk, she took her few belongings and went to the dressing-room to get her hat and coat Silly to feel like tears over a deserted office desk and a typewriter ...

Kitty secretly pleased and excited at the office drama, came in

Did he...

No I did Alix said

'But if he'd fire you he'd have given you two weeks salary'

Alix tried to smile My foolish pride Goodbye Kitty Call me up sometime

When she stepped onto the icy pavement her tears would not let her see

Tuck found her at the apartment standing over the little white table in the kitchen carefully mixing ingredients of a tomato juice cocktail

You've been crying Tuck said

Alix looked up 'You always know I left the office today Oh it's so ugly and unfair' And I shouldn't be going out with Kurt Deering tonight

Why not?

Because there's too much difference in our lives I'm just a new girl he wants to dance with and to Don Lawrence I'm just another blond She took a deep tired breath Tuck why can't Kurt be like Eddie making twenty five dollars a week and living in a furnished room? It wouldn't make any difference to me It must be a terrible thing she said slowly to be in love with a man who isn't in love with you It must be about the worst thing that can happen to you.

Before she dressed she went to the desk and wrote to Tod Outside it was snowing again Thinking of Tod took her back to the long ago of childhood to Tod as fair as she a handsome, honest clear-thinking boy until the wrong companions had drawn him into their plans for petty crimes and distorted his ideas. Once he had flung at her "Anybody's a fool for working when there's a lot of easy money around' And she had said, 'But you have to pay such a great penalty 'If you're smart" he retorted, 'you don't get caught

She wrote to him, "Tod, darling, I'll tell you again if you're tired of going to sea, come home. What happened four years ago is over and forgotten. You always said you were innocent. I want to see you so terribly and I've told you I'd let you have the money to get back if you need it. You're still young enough to start in at a trade or profession."

When she read it over, she could hear his jeering laugh when he read it. "What—me work? Me work in an office or a garage? Not on your life!"

Snow pelted the windows. It was seven o'clock Tomorrow everything would be quite the same except for the memories she would have of tonight. Tomorrow she would still be without a job, worried over Tod, and thinking of the bills due the first of the month.

When she went into the living-room, Tuck was lying on the sofa

Alix caught her breath "You're ill, Tuck!"

"Don't be frightened, child" But beads of perspiration stood out on her forehead and her face was a white mask "It's—it's just another heart spell. The old pump's been misbehaving lately. I'm not going to die"

Alix's eyes filled with tears. 'You work too hard Oh, Tuck, is there anything I can do?"

"I'll be all right in a minute I'm almost through with work. Through for good When you're married and safe, I'm going to buy a house in the country where you can bring your children to see me" Sitting up she brushed back her graying hair and smiled at the girl's troubled face 'But not until you're married because you might need me. Because you're the only child I ever had."

"And you're the best friend I've ever had I couldn't do without you"

"Sorry for pulling a stunt like this on such an important night" She looked at the window sleeted with ice "It's a nice night to go out with a man you're in love with Snowing and cold I went out with the man I loved once on just such a night" Getting up, she pulled the brown sweater over her hips "What nonsense I'm talking"

"You never told me you were in love once"

"I'll tell you about it sometime But not now"

Alix wore the dark red velvet dress with long tight sleeves that she had bought in the autumn for a wedding With it she wore the gold sandals Tuck had given her at Christmas and over her hair the little Juliet cap made of small pearls"

"You don't look like a girl without a job," Tuck said, nodding in approval.

Alix smiled. "Suppose he's forgotten"

But the bell rang then. Giving Tuck a nervous little smile as Tuck got up and went into the bedroom, Alix crossed the room and opened the door. Kurt was standing beneath the dim hall light and his wide shoulders were flecked with snow.

"Hello," Kurt said and gave her a white oblong box. "Suppose it had been the wrong apartment and I'd given the wrong girl the box. Or worse—suppose her husband had been there."

Taking the orchids from the box, she thanked him and pinned them to the shoulder of her dress

Kurt thought, holding the black fur coat for her, "What a lovely girl she is, quiet and graceful!"

He said, "I feel unworthy to go out with Juliet But very proud. I hope you have a healthy appetite, Alix, and like to dance between courses. It's a swell night to go dancing with Juliet"

"I could never live up to being a Juliet."

"On the contrary, I believe you could"

The court below had never been lovelier as they walked through it. Lights from various windows shone on the snow.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained.
